WORLD-WIDE PLANNED ECONOMY ON HORIZON

Mr. Washburn Child's Mission in Britain

SCHEME EVOLVED IN LONDON

HIGH COMMISSIONERS
MAY BE APPOINTED

NEW ERA POSSIBLE

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, April 3, 7.14 a.m.)

LONDON, APRIL 2.

A NEW ERA OF WORLD-WIDE ECONOMIC COOPERATION MAY SOON BE USHERED IN AS THE RESULT OF THE LABOURS IN ENGLAND OF MR. RICHARD WASHBURN CHILDS, PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S "ROVING ECONOMIC EXPERT."

Mr. Childs to-day disclosed in an interview with the United Press that he is nearing the conclusion of a fortnight's special mission in Britain, which has met with a warm response.

A scheme has been evolved, he declared, which will mean worldwide planned economy, on the basis of permanent bilateral organs.

Already certain interesting proposals have been advanced which will cement trade relations between the United States and the British Isles.

TALK OF REVIVAL OF THE W.E.C.

The scheme propounded by Mr. Childs visualises an extension of the suggestions for Britain and the United States to all countries in the world.

As a result of his discussions in London, it is contemplated that Anglo-American trade relations may entail the appointment of two High Commissioners, one a Briton and one an American, functioning for three hundred and sixty-five days a year, possibly spending half their time in the United States and half in Britain, preparing, for instance, reciprocal tariff agreements, quota and other trade agreements.

It was explained by Mr. Childs that other Commissioners could act in similar manner between the United States and other countries.

SOVIET MYSTERY SHIP

Compelled to Seek Shelter

It is learned that the Soviet "mystery" ship, Kuznetz Lessou, which left the Pratas escorted by two sister ships yesterday morning, was compelled to put back later for shelter, owing to heavy weather.

The Henry Keswick which pulled her off the reef returned to Hongkong this morning.

and between the other countries themselves.

SCHEME EVOLVED IN ENGLAND.

The scheme was evolved, he said, following a series of conferences with British business leaders, members of the British Government from the departments interested in

Mr. Walter Elliot, Minister of Agriculture, who was married to Miss Katherine Tennant yesterday.

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received April 3, 5.55 a.m.)

London, Apr. 2.

Prominent political opponents were wed at North Berwick to-day when Mr. Walter Elliot, the Conservative Minister of Agriculture, married Miss Katherine Tennant.

Until quite recently, Miss Tennant was the holder of high office in the Scottish Liberal organisations.

The bride is a half-sister of Margot, Countess of Oxford and Asquith.

Mr. Walter Elliot is regarded as one of the most promising of the younger Conservatives and his activities as Minister of Agriculture, directed towards national control, have attracted much attention and favourable comment. He has been a member of Parliament since 1918.—Reuter's Special Service.

CHINA'S FOREIGN POLICY

NO CHANGE REGARDED AS NECESSARY

(Special to "Telegraph")

Shanghai, Apr. 3.

Discussing foreign affairs, Mr. Wang Ching-wei declared in an interview with pressmen here that the Chinese Government would not change its policies despite the new situation created by the informal exchange of correspondence between the United States and Japan, which no doubt had had the effect of mitigating the tense relations between Japan and Russia.

Regarding Tibet, he said that the British Government had assured the Chinese Government that Britain had no ambition whatever in Tibet. If the Tibetans welcomed the return of the Panchen Lama, the Central Government would certainly give him every assistance to effect his return to Tibet without delay.—Central News.

London, Apr. 3.
According to the Financial Times, the international tin committee is expected to meet on April 5 instead of May 10.

The question of an increase in the quota is likely to be discussed at the meeting in the light of the stock figures at the end of March. The formation of the buffer tin pool, which the Dutch favour, will also be discussed as it is believed that the holdings of the original pool are now liquidated.—Reuter.

AMERICAN TRADE REVIVAL

CONFIDENCE IN HIGH PLACES

CONSISTENT RISE

New York, Apr. 2.

The steadily improving trend of general business conditions in the United States is reflected in the pronouncements of the chairman of the United States Steel Corporation and the President of the General Motors Corporation at the annual meetings of shareholders.

The United States Steel chairman declared:

"Last year we thought we could see signs of revival ahead. To-day we know we can."

"The Corporation is now operating at forty per cent. of full capacity as compared with 14.8 per cent. at this time last year. The number of its employees is only twenty thousand under the 220,000 persons in its employ in the peak year, 1929."

At the General Motors meeting, the chairman said that though the rate of business improvement may be accelerated or retarded by abnormal influences, industrial recovery like industrial depression is irrefragable.

The chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, Mr. Jesse Jones, also affirms that business conditions throughout the country are considerably improving.

FURTHER SIGNS.

Further facts warranting revival claims are that six millions have been re-employed either privately or directly by the government, that railway income has increased by two hundred per cent. as compared with last year, while car production for the first quarter of the year was the largest for four years.

The Federal deficit is below the estimate while bank conditions are reported good.

It was noted that the Easter Parade along Fifth Avenue was composed of the best dressed and happiest crowds since 1929. All the leading hotels were filled and restaurants and cocktail bars crowded.—Reuter.

The conference met under the presidency of Mr. James Maxton, the well-known Left Wing M.P.

The relations of the Party with Moscow and the question of affiliation with the Communist International occupied the attention of the delegates for the greater part of the day.

The Conference finally rejected a motion in favour of immediate affiliation with Moscow and adopted by 102 votes to 64 the recommendation of the Party Executive that affiliation with the Communist International must be regarded as impossible in present circumstances.—Reuter.

Constant Powdering Bad For Skin

Says Specialist

Many women feel that they must be constantly dabbling on powder in order to prevent their faces from becoming shiny. They never stop to realize what effect this may have upon their skin.

A new and clever idea now enables any woman to powder once in the morning and have it last all day. A teaspoonful of mouse of cream added to a favorite face powder, makes it clinging and adherent that it stays on in spite of sun, wind or rain and even in the hottest bathroom.

In Poudre Tokalon, the mouse of cream is scientifically blended with the finest powdered powder. Thus, Poudre Tokalon is the only genuine mouse of cream face powder. It acts as a splendid skin tonic, stimulating the tissues and never clogging the pores—such as constant powdering may do. Apply Poudre Tokalon to-morrow morning to your own face and watch results.

ANNIVERSARY MEETING AT CHINA EMPORIUM

Over sixty members of the Siamese Students' Association in China gathered at the China Emporium last night, on the occasion of the anniversary of the Association.

Among those present were Dr. and Mrs. M. O. Pfister, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Barton, Very Rev. Fr. D. MacDonnell, and the Very Rev. Fr. Burke.

Addressing the gathering, the President, Mr. T. Y. Ng-suwan, said: "I am glad to have the opportunity to stand before you again for the second time. I feel proud of the large gathering here to-night, and am thankful, especially for the presence of our Hon. Members and other guests of honour."

"I was President of the Association last year, and am again elected this year, for which I feel very thankful. I want all members to know of the affairs of the Association, and hope I have done my duties to the satisfaction of all of you. I will do my best again this year for the Association."

The Association was founded

this day last year, with the special permission from His Majesty the King of Siam, who has graciously donated a hundred dollars. Moreover, H. E. Major-General Phya Indra Viji, the Siamese Minister Plenipotentiary at Tokyo, has been appointed to be guardian of the Association in order to give every possible assistance to us.

"The aim of the Association is not only to foster the spirit of brotherhood, but also to render assistance and facilities to the Siamese students in China and those who pass through Hongkong."

In conclusion, I wish to express my thanks to every member for their sincere co-operation in the different affairs of the Association; and hope you will exert more energy to the activity of the Association, for the general good of every one of us."

Following the Toast of Their Majesties the King and Queen, Dr. Pfister, addressing the gathering, dealt reminiscently with the days of his youth when he became acquainted with Prince Rangsit, and was appointed Court Physician to H. M. King Chulalongkorn.

Other speeches were given by the Rev. Fathers Burke and Macdonnell, and Mr. L. A. Barton.

KATHARINE
HAVILAND-TAYLOR

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

PABLITO, a handsome 17-year-old youth, works at the palatial Florida home of millionaire JIM FIELD. When Field's daughter, ESTELLE, arrives he falls in love with her almost at sight.

Pablito knows nothing of his parents—a titled Englishman and a servant girl. As a child he ran away from ANGELA, the cruel old woman in whose care he was left, since then he has lived with NORRIS NOYES, wanted by police for a murder years before.

TRIP JEFFRIES, a guest at the Field home who knows Noyes' past, sees him. Pablito gives Noyes money to escape to Cuba. The next night, dressed as a torador, Pablito goes to a masquerade at the Field home. Estelle recognizes him and there is a tender love scene between them.

As Pablito leaves he sees a man mistreating a child and strikes him. The man falls unconscious and Pablito thinks he has killed him. A man and girl—believers who have attended the party to rob jewels—appear. The next thing Pablito knows he is in a motor boat with these two. The man has a run and directs Pablito to head the boat for Cuba.

CHAPTER XII

Pablito watched the compass—clear in the strong white moonlight—kept the boat headed for Cuba. The girl huddled low on a side seat, watching Pablito narrowly, steadily. The man called Beau slept fitfully, now and again waking to mutter that any "funny tricks" would mean one less bullet in the chamber of his repeater.

"Aw, shut up, Beau!" the girl advised after he had said this four times. "The kid's come to his senses. Ain't you?" she ended softly. Pablito nodded. Again the man slept and the girl edged toward Pablito, sitting closer to him. The wind was keen and strong from the north and he saw that she was shivering.

"They're havin' a storm up north, I guess," she hazarded.

He could not bring himself to speak, remembering what he had done.

"Feelin' sick, dearie?" the girl questioned gently. Pablito turned to her miserably, and on his face she read the answer.

"The first murder's always the hardest," she said. Pablito covered his eyes with his hands.

"Dearie," she said warmly, "it wasn't like you did it for yourself. Things ain't ever so bad if you do 'em for someone else. It was seein' that kid bein' beat that got you. Poor little kid. Gawd, my mother, she used to beat me! I hope she's in hell—"

Pablito dropped his hands, staring ahead. He said nothing.

"Gawd, it's cold," the girl muttered next. After a moment she crept closer and crunched on the boat bottom against his knee.

"Do you mind this here?" she asked scarcely above a whisper.

"No," he answered. Nothing could matter ever again, he felt. For how could he go back to Estelle now? He never could. That was done—over. He felt the girl pressing closer and knew, staring down at her stupidly through the haze that gripped him, that she must be suffering from the cold. She was dressed lightly.

He tried to slip from his velvet jacket but she stopped him. "Watcha doin'?" she asked roughly.

"I want you to put it on. You must be cold," he told her.

She looked at him wonderingly for a moment. Then she smiled, not quite steadily. "Keep your shirt on, brother," she ordered, adding, "My God, that was white of you. I ain't used to it. Honest I ain't."

She patted his hand and he looked at her dully. After a time she slept, crunched against his knees.

Pablito had no wish for sleep and no thought of it. He managed the boat and watched his compass half unconsciously as memories of the night, early and late, came back to him. Always in the background was a vision of a man's figure lying across the sandy road and Pablito himself looking down at it.

Once he felt for the little gold heart tied in the handkerchief he had tucked under the edge of his broad, red sash. Feeling it, he drew his hand away sharply. He was a murderer now. He saw again the man in the roadway and the child; the glitter of the camp; Estelle as she had raised her face to his. His misery was a tangled mania. He had never needed Noyes as he did then. Before his thought had been always that Noyes might need him.

When he spoke the girl at his feet shifted a little, groaned and shivered. He slipped from his velvet jacket and put it around her. Beau moved, changing the tempo of his snore.

To Pablito the night was a year of hell—harsh hell, Puritan hell. At three o'clock the wind died to a feeble whisper and the stars began to dim. At five came a gray, late dawn and a spectacular, short rain storm. Lottie groaned in her sleep and Beau awoke to curse her.

Awake, he rubbed his eyes, yawning, stretched and set to planning. They would have to land carefully. They had had other clothes packed and ready to take with them but a cluster of servants had made a barrier they could not pass. Now they'd have to make a careful landing, steal some clothes and burn their costumes. They would have to keep away from Havana, hide in the bushes until night, then rob some clothes lines and, as Beau said satirically, "start a new life."

Pablito heard all this dully. He didn't care what they did nor much—what happened. He wondered whether he would ever care again, whether he would ever know again anything but this deep, numbing pain.

The rain passed away and the day became bright and dazzling. Presently Lottie woke. Pablito, who had the eyes of a seaman, made out a hair line of darkness on the water that was tinted by the glory of the sky.

"Cuba," he said heavily. Beau strained his eyes but saw nothing. Loudly and with some humour he invited Pablito to "go on!" Lottie said she could see it too and Beau grinned. "Sure you do, sweetheart," he remarked genially. "I'll bet you see anything he sees and believe anything he says. Boy," he shouted with a turn toward Pablito, "you've made a hit!"

Pablito kept his eyes on Cuba, looking now like the thinnest wafer of a coin.

Perhaps they might make a landing by noon. They had had a late start. And what then?

Of this only, Pablito was certain; he would be in hiding and more or less in the power of the two in the boat with him. Always now he would be in hiding, fearing new faces that looked on him for more than a second, skulking through the streets, hunting such vaguely respectable places as those which would give him assurance of safety. He had dreamed much, although mistily, of all that he would do with life. He had never dreamed it was to be like this.

"You're right," Beau sang out loudly. "It is Cuba!"

He talked excitedly then of how they could make their "getaway." "We've only begun this," he stated. "There's a lot of dodging ahead. They're going to be lookin' for us."

"For us?" Pablito echoed. He wondered what Lottie and Beau had done.

Beau looked at Pablito narrowly—at Pablito whose crime he understood from a sometimes soft heart at which he snored or railed when it overcame him. He wished he had not used Pablito's dagger. "But he's safe enough now," he reflected, "and it was the thing anybody woulda done. It was only sense!"

"It seems like I could see the green," Lottie said, her eyes for a moment turned from Pablito toward the thickening wafer that was Cuba. Beau said he could see a lady on the shore raising hell with the milkman because the cream was sour. "Well," he added, suddenly serious, "here's to you, Cuba! Be good to us!"

They drifted around in the hot sunlight, Lottie moaning of her hunger and Beau telling her she should be thankful for the filled water bottles they had found in a locker.

Their course was necessarily devious. No one, not even the humblest of fishermen, must see them in Field's boat. They must find an isolated shore for landing which should be, if possible, fairly close to Havana. Once on land, they must wait for the cover of night before continuing on their way.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

Which is the stronger love—the love of a woman for a man or the love of a mother for her child? In "Gallant Lady," the latest 20th Century picture which comes to-morrow to the Alhambra Theatre, beautiful Ann Harding embodies the answer to this age old question. Faced with the alternative of becoming reunited with her little son after years of separation under the penalty of silence regarding her true identity, or of disclosing the fact and thereby wrecking his future, Ann makes a decision which changes the whole course of her life—and the boys'. What would you have done under similar conditions? Would you have acted as she did? The story of "Gallant Lady," deals with the experiences of an unwed mother who achieves phenomenal business success, and then accidentally meets her own child, whom she had signed away for adoption immediately after its birth through inability to care for it. In a series of dramatic sequences the tale reunites mother and child, but does it under penalties which would seem to be almost unbearable. A brilliant cast, including Clive Brook, Tullio Carminati, Otto Kruger, Dickie Moore and Janet Beecher supports Miss Harding in this, her initial picture for Joseph M. Schenck and Darryl F. Zanuck. The picture is released by United Artists.

"Mama Loves Papa" are better actors than dramatic players. So says Norman McLeod, Hollywood comedy director whose latest picture, "Mama Loves Papa," Mary Boland-Charlie Ruggles co-starring comedy, opens on Thursday at the Kings Theatre. "Mama Loves Papa" is the story of the adventures and misadventures of a middle-aged commuting couple, the record of the laughs in the lives of a middle-class business man, who annoys his neighbours with his puns, and his wife, who tries to make him live up to her standard of culture, as learned from popular lecturers. McLeod, who has directed most of the comedy successes of the last few years, says—"Charlie Chaplin is a genius at pathos and drama. Jack Oakie has made some remarkable dramatic scenes. Wallace Beery is equally fine in comic or character roles." "Mama Loves Papa" illustrates the point. Both Ruggles and (Continued on Page 10.)

INDIA'S FUTURE

partiality and integrity which that element has established. The present total of British civil officials in India is only about three thousand for a population of 350 millions. Already there are more Indians than British in the highly-paid posts of the Administration. But the British are necessary, as experience shows, not only for good administration, but to protect the interests of the unrepresented masses of the poor.

5. On the above conditions, transfer the remaining field of Provincial Administration to the control of the Provincial Legislatures, subject, as at present, to recall, if abused; but retain non-legislative control of the Courts and Police, the two pillars of British justice and security, till experience shows that they can be safely made over to legislative control, province by province.

This rough outline may serve to show how Parliament can reconcile its responsibility for "the welfare and advancement of the Indian peoples," with its policy of furthering, "by stages," the "gradual development of self-governing institutions."

But it should be clear that if and when that final stage is reached, Great Britain—which is no more an "alien" Power in India than those that preceded it, which has alone protected India from invasion and chaos, and which has brought India to a stage of development far above that of any other Oriental country—must continue to be represented as at least an equal partner with British India and the Indian States. Only in that way can India remain "an integral part of the British Empire," as postulated in the Act of 1919, and as desired by the immense majority in British India and by all the Indian States.

CONVERT FOR NAZIS.

FORMER SOCIALIST ALWAYS SYMPATHISED WITH HITLER

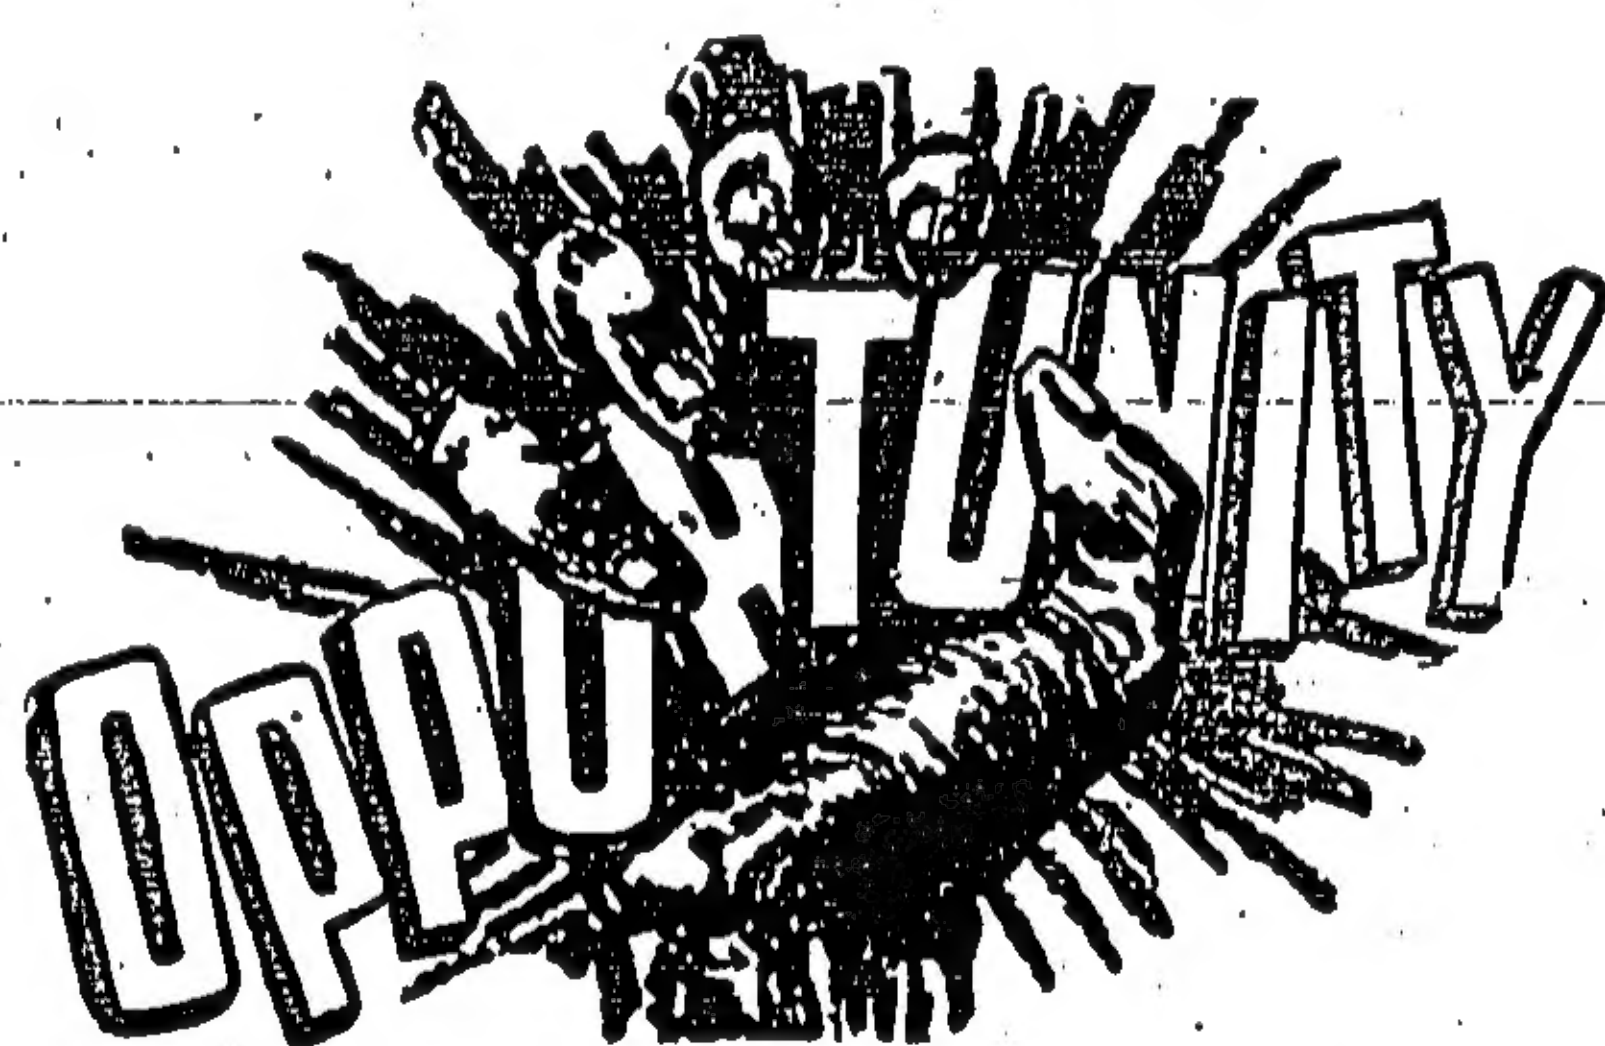

Berlin, Apr. 2.

Herr Karl Severing, the last Socialist-Democratic Minister for the Interior in Prussia, has become a convert to "Hitlerism" because Hitler is a Republican.

"My Way To Hitler" is the title of a book which is about to be published, and in which Severing alludes to his forcible ejection from the Ministry by his own police officers. However, he says, "from the depths of my heart, I have always sympathised with Hitler."

SEEKING THEIR RULER

TIBETAN MONKS TO JOIN
TASHI LAMA IN CHINA

Calcutta, Apr. 2. The Tibetan Government deputation, comprising 50 Buddhist monks and their servants, who are en route to China to bring the Tashi Lama, temporal head of Tibet, back to his native land, leaves here to-morrow for China by the British steamer Kut Sang. It is rumoured in Tibetan circles that the Tibetan National Assembly has telegraphed the Tibetan Government Agent at Kalimpong stating that the life of the Present Regent is threatened, and asking the deputation to proceed by the sea route to China, thereby avoiding all possible delays in returning at the earliest moment to Tibet with the Tashi Lama.—Reuter.

PAPAL DELEGATE HONOURED.

RECEPTION GIVEN BY LOCAL CATHOLICS

A rousing reception was given to Mgr. Mario Zanin, the new Apostolic Delegate to China, at a reception held last evening in his honour and in honour of the three newly ordained Chinese priests, Fathers Lucas Fung, Paul Lau and Joseph Yip, by the Chinese Catholic Young Men's Society last evening. Owing to rain, the function, previously arranged to take place at the Catholic Cathedral compound, was held in the hall of the Wah Yan College at Robinson Road. His Excellency the Apostolic Delegate was accompanied by Bishop Henry Valtorta and other members of the local Catholic clergy.

In presenting an address of welcome on behalf of the Society, the Chairman (Mr. C. S. Shau) said: Your Excellency, Monsignor Mario Zanin, Rev. Bishops and Fathers, Ladies and Gentlemen.

Although I am not an eloquent speaker I feel in duty bound to say a few words of congratulation and welcome to your Excellency and the three newly ordained fathers.

The Chinese community of Hongkong feels proud to have the honour of the company of His Excellency, the Apostolic Delegate, here to-night.

Our Holy Father sends his delegate to China through love of our Chinese brothers, therefore we should feel that we are receiving our Holy Father when we receive His delegate, for Christ says: "He who receives you receives Me."

I trust this reception will leave us a living memory, not for the entertainment we are going to enjoy, but for the grace and honour we receive from His Excellency that we should carry out our duty as Catholics towards the Church in its proper sense. Words fail me to express my gratitude to your Excellency and I close by wishing your Excellency, on behalf of the Chinese Catholics in Hongkong, success in every undertaking in China.

To the new Fathers I offer my congratulations. Of the three fathers two were born in Wanchai and looking back to past records, one finds that Wanchai has raised many priests. Before long I hope other districts will rise, if not more, at least an equal number as Wanchai for "The harvest indeed is great but the labourers are few."

The new fathers have been trained, for the Mission field, and they are prepared to face all difficulties and sufferings in the new future and I hope the Catholic community will give them every support in order to make their work of Salvation a success. (applause.)

Delegate Replies.

Mr. Simon Tse-yen presented another address on behalf of the Chinese Catholic community in general, and with it a poetical dedication in Chinese to the distinguished prelate and his mission.

The three newly ordained Chinese priests were similarly honoured, each being made the recipient of a souvenir address dedicated to the occasion.

Mgr. Zanin in reply, expressed his profound gratitude for the warm reception accorded him, and spoke of the great work offered by the China field for the propagation of the Catholic faith.

LETTING THE PUBLIC
KNOW

One piece of local reform which we should like to see instituted is the use of more popular and informative language in the "Objects and Reasons" attached to local Ordinances. More often than not, there is no statement of the intentions of the framers of the law or of the grounds on which the intentions are based. For the most part, the "Objects and Reasons" are confined to laboured legal explanations of the origin of various clauses. Even these are altogether meaningless without reference back to previous Ordinances. To the legal profession, this may not greatly matter, since the text of the Ordinance sets forth the enactment in detail, but the newspaper which seeks to acquaint the public of the main features of new laws finds that it is practically impossible to obtain from the "Objects and Reasons" the really essential points. It has to be borne in mind that the average resident—and it is he who is mostly affected by changes in the law—seldom sees the Government Gazette, in which the drafts of proposed Ordinances are given. He naturally looks to the newspapers for his information. Obviously Ordinances cannot be reprinted in full by the Press, whilst to discover the respects in which proposed new laws differ from those already in force, or from those which it may be intended to repeal, would often involve so much research as to rule out the attempting of the task. The difficulties may be illustrated by a reference to the draft Ordinance dealing with the entry and departure of persons into and out of the Colony. Attached to the law is a table which gives the sources of the various clauses, some of which are based on Straits Settlements Ordinances and others on existing Hongkong laws and regulations which are being modified and incorporated in the new Bill. No difficulty is experienced in tracing totally new provisions which do not come within any of these three categories, but it is impossible to say at a glance whether, and if so, to what extent, some of the other provisions represent a change from existing requirements. The "Objects and Reasons" are no real guide, any more than were those attached to another recent Bill dealing with a related subject, the registration of persons. The public is often reminded that it is supposed to be fully acquainted with the law. Surely the best method of ensuring that it is would be to utilise all available means for the purpose.

NOTES OF THE DAY

SECURITY GUARANTEES

Things have been moving quickly during the last six or seven days in the sphere of disarmament. Britain's leadership remains the most hopeful source of achievement, chiefly because of the widespread feeling in Europe that Britain's guarantee can be trusted, where they dare not trust each other's without it. And there is no longer any doubt that progress cannot be made without more specific guarantees of execution in the proposed Convention. Once again, British policy seems to have undergone modification to bring it into line with changed circumstances and further commitments are possible if a clear understanding with the United States proves possible.

SANCTIONS

The impression given that the British Government is vacillating in its disarmament policy is wholly false. There may be flexibility in the means to the end but inflexible is the determination to secure an agreement, however much it may be short of the ideal, that will give a new stability to European relations for the next ten years. Thus far, the Government has pursued a perfectly clear line. Further commitments are, certainly, to be criticised, but those in sympathy with the idea of a collective guarantee of peace through the League of Nations will not cavil. If it is agreed that the world cannot yet do without sanctions if it is desired to ensure the peace, they might just as well be strong and speedy in application.

REGIONAL PACTS

Britain's recent questions to France and M. Corbin's answers reveal very clearly, once again, what is really expected of Britain if she wants a disarmament agreement. When Sir Austen Chamberlain signed the Locarno Pact, guaranteeing the Franco-German frontier, it was hoped that similar regional pacts would guard against the other possible sources of war in Europe. But because Britain would not be a party to them, they have never been signed. Sir John Simon's enquiry on this issue of regional guarantees implies further consideration of Britain's policy and a possible change. There is certainly a growing appreciation of the logic of the French case in British official circles.

FRANCE AND BELGIUM

M. Barthou's visit to Brussels has strengthened the hand of France. The Count de Brocqueville's recent address to the Belgian Senate telling them that they must admit Germany's rearmament caused an alarm not justified by the circumstances, but inspired by the general feeling of tension. Immediately, the fear was expressed in Paris that the death of King Albert might loosen the close cooperation on foreign and military policy that has endured since the War. It was, of course, something of a surprise to find the mutual concession thesis adopted so energetically in Brussels. M. Hymans was, however, able to assure M. Barthou that there is no fundamental divergence in French and Belgian policies.

IMPLIED COMPLIMENT

The Republican Party in the United States by implication pays President Roosevelt a high compliment. The leaders admit they are waiting for him to make a serious blunder before they can produce an effective campaigning issue for the Congressional elections which are scheduled for November next. That it had not appeared after over a year of high speed experimentation and reform can only mean sound judgment, not the luck which is all his critics will credit the President with.

SUCCESS OR FAILURE?

It is still too soon to pass judgment on Mr. Roosevelt's programme of reconstruction. The ultimate criterion must be success or failure, and of that it is likely to be many months before we can know the issue. Some of his measures must continue to arouse considerable scepticism. For instance, the policy of still higher wages and shorter hours, reiterated in his anniversary broadcast yesterday, and again in the attempt, not yet apparently abandoned, to lower up prices by manipulation of the exchanges, seem more calculated to retard than to advance the attainment of his objectives. Moreover, a rapid and extensive revival of prosperity will be needed to justify the vast burden of public debt which he is proposing to pile up over the next eighteen months. Nevertheless, while the success of the system Mr. Roosevelt is creating remains problematical, the failure of that which he found is a matter of history.

INDIA'S FUTURE

By SIR MICHAEL O'DWYER, G.C.I.E., K.C.S.I.

THE White Paper proposals for the good government and satisfaction of India have two cardinal faults. They do not give good government and they do not give satisfaction.

As to good government, they put the Army and Police under different masters and thereby imperil security; they eliminate the British personnel from nearly all the Services and thereby lower efficiency; they vastly increase expenditure and thereby threaten bankruptcy.

As to satisfaction, no single body of Indian opinion is willing to accept them as they stand: the Princes insist on drastic alterations; the Congress extremists repudiate the whole scheme; the Indian Liberals reject the safeguards; the orthodox Hindus reject the Poona Pact; the Punjab Sikhs and Hindus will not submit to a Moslem majority; the non-official Europeans are divided and nervous; the anxiety of the Indian Civil Service is "impossible to exaggerate"; the great Moslem minority are alarmed at the prospect of a Central Government mainly Hindu; and some hope to form a Mohammedan Federation in the North-West. Altogether, the scheme, which aims at satisfying the "moderate politicians," satisfies nobody in India and is causing increasing alarm here to all who have interests in India.

The White Paper may be modified by the Joint Committee, but its errors are fundamental because it is based on the wrong assumption that you can by a stroke of the pen transplant democracy to India. On the other hand, there are the pledges in the Act of 1919 and the expectations aroused. This leads to the question often asked: "What is the alternative to the White Paper?" Let me endeavour to answer that question with respect both to the pledges and the essentials of good government—as well as the integrity of the British Empire.

If we look first for our basic principle we shall find it nowhere better expressed than in the Government of India's classic despatch of September 20, 1930, in which Lord Irwin and his Council stated their views on the proposals of the Simon Commission. There (in para. 230) what they call the "essence" of their proposals is "that control (British) should be of such a nature as to establish partnership in place of subordination."

With this principle of partnership they maintain also the responsibility and control of Parliament (see paras. 19 and 225) in the most essential matters. Again (in para. 133) they speak not only of a partnership between Great Britain and India in the Government, but partnership in the Legislature as well as in the Executive, and to that end they retain the power of nomination. Obviously, also the principle of partnership which already exists in the Services should apply to the Executives and Legislature in the Provinces.

These are the views of Lord Irwin and his Council—four British and three Indian members—and this fundamental principle of partnership was not challenged at the three Round Table Conferences. On the contrary, Sir Samuel Hoare, at the close of the Third (on December 24, 1931) himself emphasised this principle of partnership.

"We have been confronted with the problem of reconciling the claims of three partners who have for many generations been united in an undertaking of far-reaching ramifications; Great Britain on the one hand, British India on the other, and Indian India on the other. The old Articles of Association were getting out of date; a new bond of union had to be found... the new bond must be the bond of an All-India Federation with the rights of each of the three parties effectively safeguarded."

Here, then, are these two basic principles—partnership, and the responsibility of the British Parliament. The White Paper eliminates both; for partnership it substitutes surrender. It is exactly as if the principal partner in an old-established business were to propose to abandon all the functions of partnership and to become instead the chowkidar or watchman at the door. So in India, under the White Paper, we retain the Army, thereby exposing ourselves to the charge of governing by force alone, but abandon every function of Government. In my view, we can have no satisfactory scheme which is not based on this principle of partnership.

On these assumptions let us now venture on the main lines of an alternative scheme:

1. Frame the Constitution so as to provide, if and when feasible, for an All-India Federation based on the voluntary association of the Provinces and self-governing States with Great Britain (hitherto the senior partner) for certain common purposes. In the meantime create the Council of Greater India, representing British India and the States, to discuss matters of common concern, as proposed by the Statutory Commission.

2. The Central Government to remain responsible to the British Crown and Parliament, as proposed by the Commission, at least until a stable All-India Federation is established. When that is done the control of Parliament might be restricted to those essential imperial responsibilities enumerated in the Government of India despatch (para. 225). This would leave to the Government of India a considerable and growing measure of independence.

3. In the Central and Provincial Governments, Great Britain's partnership in the Indian Empire to be recognised by adequate British representation, not only in the Executives, but in the Legislatures, and also in all the important Services. By this provision we sweep away all that irritating but futile, paraphernalia of Safeguards, Emergency Powers, and Special Responsibilities, which surround the White Paper as with broken glass and barbed wire. The safeguards will not be external but internal. We thereby promote efficient, impartial and stable administration; reduce communal tension, protect minorities and encourage the Princes to come into a scheme in which the Sovereign Power is adequately represented. The difficulty of providing a sufficient number in the Legislature to represent the British partner is not insoluble.

4. Maintain in all the important Services—General Administration, Judiciary, Police, Public Works, Irrigation, Forests, Agriculture, Public Health, &c.—a British element adequate to the maintenance of the standards of efficiency, immorality.

The Very Idea!

CRACKED EASTER EGGS

By George

EASTER was a bad egg this year for all of us.

Before it cracked we were broke and by the time it was hatched it was All Fools Day.

To start at the beginning we may say that Good Friday threatened to be really Good this year what with pay day unfortunately coinciding and the banks holding out on us. There were plenty of shroffs anxious to give us change if we handed over the cheque to them but there were none willing to change it. In the end it came to a question of paying our board or buying a paper, and since we loathe creating precedents we chose the latter.

Friday was a wet pallid of misery and we spent the day trying to balance the humidity outside with Scotch inside and it was very successful as a scientific experiment. Each time the barometer fell a point our spirits rose a pint, and when we began to see two barometers and both of them falling, the pace became something awful. Atmospheric pressure is a great thing in its place—which is not the night after. We had to carry our face about on a tray the next day and when we showed it outside it looked so rotten a ricksha coolie refused to take it as a fare.

At The Races

However, we unfortunately recovered in time to go to the races and that is where we fell down badly.

The falling habit is fearfully infectious. The flag would fall; the horses would run and then the one we had backed would fall down; and then we would fall down. Expensive falls at five bucks a time and if over an animal lover eulogises the "noblest animal" to us again he will learn something of bucking horses that will shock his ingenuous soul.

We tried several systems without success and risked ten dollars to win about fifty cents.

Remembering that "the race is not to the swift but to the sure" we backed one or two of the cart horse breed but found that even when they managed to stay the distance they stayed too long doing it.

The race was well over while the horse was still arguing with the starters and demanding a rebate of the money it had laid on itself. Interviewed afterwards the indignant animal protested against the growth of graft in what used to be an honourable profession.

Horse Makes Statement

"It is enough to make one take to the streets," said one tossing a manured hoof playfully in our direction.

A tip from the horse's hoof was not what we had come for and we left her wrapped in her jacket practising fits and starts.

We tried backing on the law of averages and our losses averaged five bucks on each race. Without tips we lost money and with tips we lost friends—which is another way of saying the same thing.

One of the hottest nags we picked out was drawn for the outside position and she seemed a real straightforward horse. The bits of her face you could see had determination written all over them and we heard one of the fraternity exclaim "What a figure!" We didn't know what the figure was but the horse certainly was attractive.

She got going well from the flag, hit up a tremendous amount of mud from her exhaust in the straight, and skidded round the corners on two legs. It was a thrilling sight to see her draw away, responding gallantly to the passionate endearments of her jockey. On the last corner she slipped a couple of lengths through looking backwards but she was still leading by about a quarter of a mile.

Horse Patriotic

The band struck up the National Anthem as she turned on to the last straight run and she lost all but fifty lengths before she started again.

There was still time. The crowd yelled themselves hoarse with excitement as she crawled near and nearer.

Suddenly she slowed down to a canter. The crowd held its breath—a few of them too long. What was the favourite going to do?

Then a great hush fell over the crowd. The horse was risking the race to smell the beautiful flowers that lined the course on the important side of the winning post. She smelt them once, twice, thrice, whilst a few of the more enduring spectators still held their breath.

Then as the rest of the field thundered past, the nature lover resumed the race to the tumultuous applause of the crowd. A race crowd dearly loves a gallant gesture.

What happened to the race? The favourite came in first—first from the last.

"I think it is a pity, doctor, that you haven't any little ones of your own."

POPULAR OFFICER

CMDR. J. E. SISSMORE TO LEAVE ON THURSDAY

Journalists in Hongkong, probably more so than in other centres, often meet with a lack of sympathy and courtesy.

Discourtesy abounds in places where there is authority, and frequently, when journalists pen the farewell platitudes of departing officials, they write with their tongues in their cheeks.

Nothing but understanding and assistance has, however, been received by local newspaper reporters from Commander J. E. Sissmore, D. S. C., R. N., who, as Staff Officer (Operations), has supplied most of the naval information that has appeared in Hongkong newspapers for the past two years.

The information that Cmdr. Sissmore is leaving Hongkong for Home by the Somersetshire on Thursday will, therefore, be received with regret, not only his large circle of friends in the Colony, but by all journalists who have had the pleasure of coming in contact with him.

Great War Service.

Cmdr. Sissmore's appointment as S. O. (O.) dates back to May, 1932, when he arrived in the Colony from H.M.S. Warspite, which was then flagship of the Mediterranean Fleet. Cmdr. Sissmore, incidentally, received his promotion whilst in Warspite.

Before joining Warspite, he was Gunnery Officer in H.M.S. Eagle, the giant aircraft carrier now attached to China Station, and in which ship he spent three years. Upon qualifying as Gunnery Officer in 1921, Cmdr. Sissmore was attached to H.M.S. Champion.

Cmdr. Sissmore's naval career dates back to 1909, when he went through the Royal Naval College at Osborne.

He served throughout the Great War, and was in H.M.S. Audacious when she was mined and sunk off the North coast of Ireland, on October 27, 1914. The loss of the Audacious was kept a secret from the British public during the whole duration of the Great War, the only other British 1st Class Battleship to be lost being H.M.S. Vanguard, which was blown up at Scapa by an internal explosion on July 9, 1917.

Gallipoli Landing.

In January, 1915 Cmdr. Sissmore was transferred to H.M.S. Queen Elizabeth, and was attached to Cmdr. Samson's Squadron at Gallipoli during that famous campaign. Attached to the Royal Navy Air Force, he participated in the landing.

It is interesting to note that Capt. R. B. Davies, V. C., D. S. O., the present commander of H.M.S. Cornwall, was also in Cmdr. Samson's Squadron at Gallipoli, and Cmdr. Sissmore was aloft in the flight in which Capt. Davies earned his V. C.

After the Gallipoli evacuation, Cmdr. Sissmore transferred to destroyer work, and remained with this important arm of the Royal Navy until the end of the War.

Hongkong journalists will join with Cmdr. Sissmore's immediate friends in wishing him bon voyage Home. Cmdr. Sissmore is proceeding on two months leave, and his movements thereafter are indefinite.

Mrs. Sissmore, who will also leave many loyal friends behind in Hongkong, is proceeding Home on the P. and O. liner Ranchi on Saturday, and will re-join her husband in England.

GOODWILL VISIT

AUSTRALIAN MISSION DUE THIS MONTH

Heading the Australian Commonwealth Goodwill Mission to the Far East, the Hon. Mr. J. G. Latham, P. C., Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of External Affairs in the Commonwealth Government, will arrive in Hongkong with his party on April 22.

This information was conveyed yesterday in an interview with local Government officials.

The Hon. Mr. Latham will arrive from Singapore by the French liner D'Aragnan, and will depart by the same vessel for Shanghai. From Shanghai, the Mission will proceed to Japan, and, after a short stay, will return direct to Hongkong, arriving here probably in mid-May. On the return trip the Hon. Mr. Latham, during his stay in Hongkong, will probably be the guest at Government House of His Excellency the Governor.

Owing to the limited time available, and the fact that the

MONSTER TRACTORS

Project For Australian Railways "Feeder" Services

Plans for the establishment of "feeder" services to the railways by means of monster tractors, which are described as "trains without lines" have been laid before the Australian Minister in Charge of Development (Senator McLachlan).

The new unit, which has a haulage capacity of 16 tons, can move along rough bush tracks and negotiate the steepest hills and sharpest turns, and represents an entirely new departure in tractor design. It is an all-British invention, and is a result of investigations made in England by the Overseas Mechanical Transport Council, on which Australia is represented.

The unit comprises an eight-wheeled tractor capable of carrying three tons and two trailers, which carry six tons each, and follow accurately the tracks of the tractor by means of remote and automatic steering control. Low-pressure tyres and articulated wheels enable the vehicle to use lightly constructed roads without causing undue wear. The motive power is supplied by a Diesel engine, and running costs are estimated at less than 4d per ton, says Austral News.

Negotiations are now proceeding between the British and Commonwealth Governments for official tests to be carried out in Central Australia.

THREE DAYS

Probable Winning Time in Great Air Race

The Victoria and Melbourne Centenary authorities now expect that the England-Australia air race, which is to be flown in October, will be won by a machine which will do the distance within three days. At least twelve starters in the race are now expected and another twelve are possible competitors, says Austral News.

Air-Commodore Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith is regarded as favourite for the race. The next in order of favouritism are, Colonel Roscoe Turner, Captain Jimmie Doolittle, Mr. James Weddel (who will probably use a plane capable of a cruising speed of 250 miles an hour, designed by himself), Messrs. James Haall and Willy Post—who represent the United States of America—Mr. and Mrs. James Molison, Captain Edgar Percival, Mr. Neville Shack and Lieutenant Cathcart Jones representing Great Britain, and an Aspi engineer representing India. Entries will close on June 1st.

FOR POPE'S VILLA

FOWLS FROM AUSTRALIA

The Apostolic Delegate to Australia, Archbishop Barnardini, has just bought six and fowls for the Vatican Villa from the Hawkesbury Agricultural College, in New South Wales, says Austral News.

Officials responsible for the upkeep of the Vatican Villa were greatly impressed by the high quality of the New South Wales fowls exhibited at the World's Poultry Exhibition at Rome last year and as a result the fowls are now on their way to Rome.

PURE WHITE PENGUIN

An absolutely white penguin has appeared at Cowes, Phillip Island, Victoria.

The bird is a fledgling and is quite white, but the eye has a cloudy blue base, so that it is apparently not an albino, says Austral News.

The keeper of the surf hut nearby says that in his twenty years on the island he has not seen another such specimen. In all other respects the bird is as normal as the black and white penguin which shares the nest with it.

Mission's arrival in Hongkong on the trip north will be on a Sunday, arrangements for local welcome have been somewhat restricted.

It is understood, however, that the Hon. Mr. Latham and members of his party will be the guests of the Australian and New Zealand Association at Mifin.

The Goodwill Mission will probably be in Shanghai on Anzac Day, April 25, and will be invited to participate in the celebrations that are being arranged on that day by the Shanghai Anzac Society.

PEOPLES THE EMPIRE

PLAN FOR ORGANISED SETTLEMENTS

Sir Henry Page Croft, the Chairman, on behalf of the Empire Development and Settlement Research Committee, has issued the following appeal for $10,000.

The Empire Development and Settlement Research Committee is gratified with the friendly reception which its proposals have received from the Press of all shades of opinion in Great Britain, and is encouraged to continue its researches and collect further specific data.

It is intended to have a definite plan or plans completed in order that the whole of its proposals can be submitted to His Majesty's Government, if and when the Government decides to accept the principle of State credit involved in the report of the Committee.

Up till now the whole of the expenses in connexion with this work has been shouldered by some of the members of the Committee, as it is responsible to no organisation and can draw on no party funds.

The volume of work has now become so great that it is necessary for the Committee to make an appeal to all sympathisers who desire to advance our plans of establishing new colonies with organised settlers and to gain contact with Dominion, State and Provincial governments overseas.

For this purpose a sum of $10,000 is required, and it is hoped that there will be a generous response.

My Committee, however, desire to emphasise the fact that for any assistance of this character which may be given, there is no kind of reward other than the satisfaction to subscribers of knowing that they are assisting in a great Imperial policy which will provide the solution of some of our greatest problems.

Any contribution received will be gratefully acknowledged, but it is suggested that subscribers of five guineas upwards should become Associate Members of the Committee. It is requested that cheques should be made out to "The Empire Committee" or order, and sent to the Hon. Treasurer, the Rt. Hon. the Viscount Chaplin and Captain the Rt. Hon. F. E. Guest, M.P., at 18, Abingdon-street, London, S.W. 1.

SAILORS ENTERTAIN.

EAGLE CONCERT PARTY AT EUROPEAN Y.M.C.A.

The men of H.M.S. Eagle created uproarious fun at their variety entertainment at the Y.M.C.A. last night when the well-known concert party gave one of the inimitable displays which has earned them a reputation from Singapore to the China Coast.

Interest in the shows provided by the navy are always a draw for the public and there were many present to see the first night of the present three night session. The next performances will be to-morrow and Wednesday.

Not the least interesting feature is a witty and informative programme containing a running commentary on some of the popular artists.

AMERICAN AIRMEN.

NAVAL FLIERS, PRAISED BY ADMIRAL

Washington, April 2. Though the Army airmen, in the face of difficult conditions, made an indifferent showing as air mail carriers, the Navy holds its head high.

Admiral William H. Standley, in a speech to-day, praised the efficiency of the Navy airmen. He pointed out that eighty per cent of the Navy aircraft participated in the January fleet manoeuvres, without a single casualty, although they made more than a thousand flights in two days. He attributed this success to the selection of personnel and specialised training.—United Press.

BORDERERS' GREATEST DISPLAY OF THE SEASON

CUP COMMENTS PAU KAPING AND THE LEEK MERRIMENT ON CLUB GROUND

(By "Veritas").

A HOLIDAY crowd for a holiday match but where was the holiday weather? Nevertheless, it needed more than a nasty drizzle to dampen the spirits of those vociferous Welsh supporters and the excited Chinese partisans.

WELSH locks there were in abundance. One, an intrepid in this national vegetable, caused merriment, then consternation, then more merriment.

ITS wearer tied it to the net in the Chinese goal. It worried Pau Kaping, who was having quite enough trouble with Welshmen without being asked to nurse the emblem.

SO he asked the referee to stop the game, who asked the soldier to remove the offence, who in turn asked the crowd what they thought about it, who... why go on?

THE only thing I missed was a rendition of "Aberystwyth".

LEE Wai-tong was given a special ovation. It was a real treat to see this artistic footballer in action again.

WITH his help, South China would have won the championship this year.

JONES scored his usual goal, and made two valiant, but unsuccessful efforts to hook others.

UNDERWOOD'S inability to kick with his right foot nearly put his team into trouble. It is passing strange that a footballer of his experience should have neglected to develop a double foot kick.

WHO is the Kwai-shing number of spectators were asking. I believe I am right in stating that he formerly played for Chinese Athletic, then dropped out of football and has lately joined up with South China.

ANOTHER capacity crowd on the Club ground. If one's judgment is not at fault the allocations to local charity will be greater than last year.

EVEN if the Borderers fail to achieve the triple—Senior Shield, Charity Cup, and League, they will go down in posterity as the team of the year. Unnoticed three months ago, they have risen to a state of eminence and popularity that they are the best drawing card in local football.

IT has never been given any other team the opportunity of achieving this feat, the Borderers being unique in fielding their full league team as representative of Wales.

LAST year South China won the Shield and the League and were well represented in China's team to capture the Charity Cup and the Chinese eleven to win the Lai Wah trophy.

To Capture The Charity Cup For Wales

Duncan played his best game of the season.

A hair-raising duel, possessing all the virtues of an ideal cup final rewarded the huge concourse of spectators which thronged the Club ground yesterday to see Wales defeat China, and win for the first time the Sunday Herald Charity Cup, by three goals to one.

It was a fiercely contested match, yet comparatively speaking free from foul play. A terrific pace was set in the early stages and maintained to the end, so that the exchanges were always bristling with excitement and pregnant with possibilities.

In lifting the cup for Wales, the Borderers played traditional football. The secret of their astonishing list of successes in local soccer is consistency in playing to an established type of game. Of this I have written before. The methods adopted are not complex, but simple and direct: in a sentence they are to move the ball by the quickest manner and the shortest route towards goal, and once there to shoot, shoot, and shoot again.

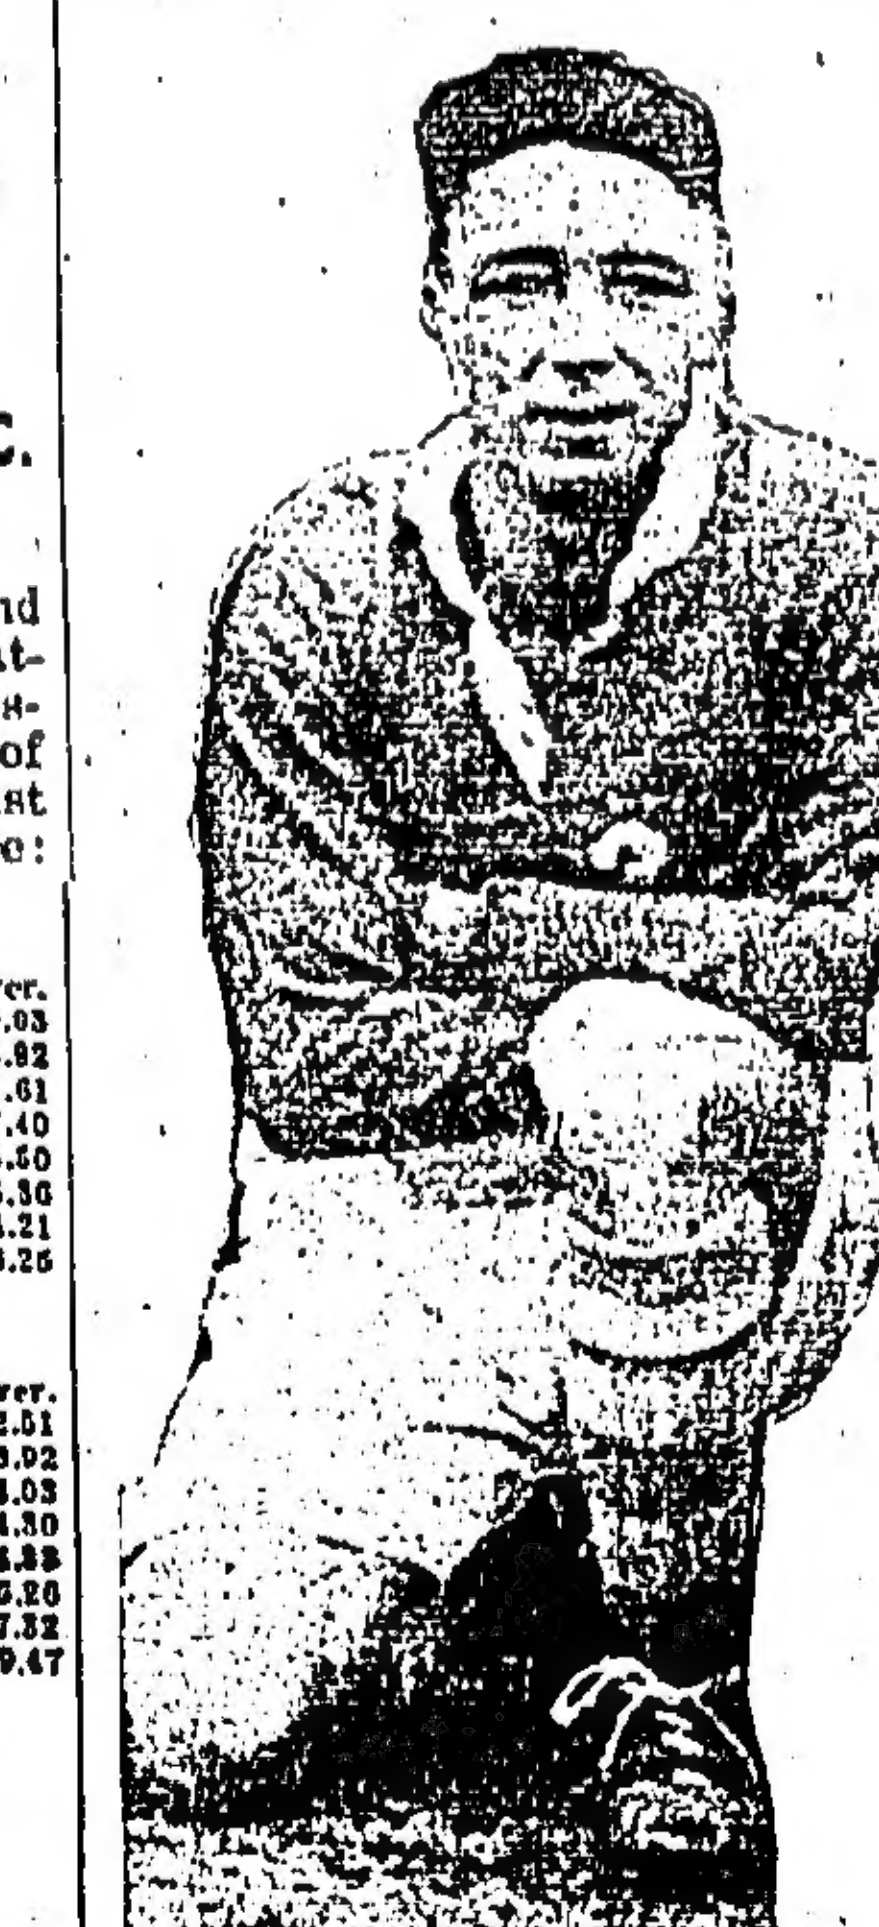

And it is an interesting commentary to note that the Chinese have not yet succeeded in finding successful counter tactics. By the same methods the Borderers beat the Chinese in the Senior Shield and took league points from South China only a fortnight ago. It was these very tactics which earned the Club victory against South China last Saturday.

SPEED THE KEYNOTE.

Speed! This is the keynote. But not the useless speed of kick and rush; of overrunning the ball and of wild and indiscriminate kicking. The speed of reaching the ball just that split second before their opponents, of passing with the least possible delay and of keeping the ball in progressive movement.

This was where the Borderers field the upper hand yesterday, for not only were they fast, but they added skill, the offspring of confidence, courage and determination.

The forward line has not worked together so well in any other match this season. That they were perfectly supported by the half backs is not to be overlooked. They flashed the ball from wing to wing and in consequence looked good for a goal practically every time they attacked. An early foot injury to Jones caused him to change places with Duncan, but those who expected this to disorganise the line received the shock of their lives.

Podmore was an inspiration.

DUNCAN'S BEST.

Duncan, playing his best game for years, was an admirable inside forward. He distributed the ball well and was ever ready to fall back when needs must to help the defence.

Neither was Jones a passenger on the wing, and he gave Leung In-chun an exceedingly busy and somewhat uncomfortable afternoon.

To Hazelwood once again falls the chief honours in attack. He "made" Mathias, and his adroit footwork, his skill in drawing the opposition and of using the ball to its best advantage, constantly left the Chinese defence at cross-purposes. Mathias could have given better support. He seemed unable to shake off the early excitement always attendant on such an occasion, and too often ruined wonderful openings by mis-kicking.

Forney confined his activities to foraging, and although he was neither a skilful nor artistic, and seldom did he look like scoring, his energetic presence was useful in attracting the attention of the defence and leaving his colleagues to go for the goals.

INSPIRING PODMORE.

But the Chinese have more reason to remember the Welsh half backs. Led by Podmore, who seems to rise to greater heights in each successive match, they obtained a terrific-like grip on the Chinese attack and held it until the final whistle brought relief.

Podmore was an inspiration. The Borderers played the well founded policy of the wing halves confining their attention to the opposing wingers, which meant that Podmore had not only to act as policeman for the inimitable Lee Wai-tong, but to thwart his thrustful colleagues, Au Ping-ming and Ho Ka-keung.

The centre-half was in his element. During interceptions, beautifully timed tackles, rounded off by through passes along the ground to his waiting forwards went towards the making of one of the most dazzling displays seen on the Club ground for many seasons.

Davies and Underwood supported well. The former was a top-notch worker against the elusive Tay Quan-tong, and although the half back was quite often rounded, his recoveries were so quick that Tay could not turn his momentary advantage to full account.

Underwood found Tay Kwai-shing a handful, but stuck grimly to his task and finally quelled the right winger.

TO STOP LEE WAI-TONG.

Behind this trio, Mullane and Morrison concentrated on stopping Lee Wai-tong, and it was to their credit that he evaded them only once. Both backs were steady and resourceful, especially when subjected to severe pressure, and their effective covering nearly always barred the Chinese attack from consummating their movements.

And when even Mullane and Morrison were beaten, Smith stepped in as a splendid last line of defence. His fine positioning and anticipation prevented China from scoring three times in the first half, and there was a period when he alone stood between the Chinese and goals. He did it with a single mistake, and handled a greasy ball with attractive skill. From goalkeeper to forward the Borderers played to win, and it was this better team work, coupled with tactics more suitable to the conditions, which turned the scales in their favour.

The Chinese played hard right through and never gave up trying. That they went about their job in a different way to the winners, and failed, does not detract any value from their performance, which was as good as any losing team could expect to give.

There were intervals when they threatened to overwhelm the opposition. It was then that they played their best, with the whole team moving up in mass formation to attack.

BADLY SUPPORTED.

Nevertheless Lee Wai-tong was not adequately supported. The former South China inside-left was too clever for his colleagues. He was scheming for through-the-middle passes the whole of the afternoon, and only once did he indicate what might have been his inside divined his ideas.

Ho Ka-keung and Au Ping-ming were the weak links in otherwise lively attack. Tay, so far as he was permitted by the omnipresent Davies and the stolid Mullane, put in some good work on the left wing, and Tay wasted no time in despatching the ball into the middle from the opposite line.

Chiefly the inside men lacked the ability to push home territorial advantages. Momentary hesitation when a quick shot was demanded several times saw them robbed of excellent scoring opportunities. The attack was clever in approach, work, but lost itself when confronted with the task of finishing off the movements.

Behind them, Leung Wing-chai and Co., played variable football. They were steady, but lacked the spark of genius which illumined the work of their opposite numbers.

HALF-BACKS AT A LOSS.

Leung was a tireless worker, but did not make the best use of it. Ho Chor-yi was more effective as a frustrator, and contributed but little to the more constructive side of his work. Lee Kwok-wai has also been seen to support his forwards better.

There were times when the halves appeared to be in danger of losing their grip and of being overrun, and there is no doubt that the quick, decisive movements of the Welsh vanguard prevented them from indulging in their normal, complacent type of game.

In defence Lau Mau was prominent, but Leung In-chun seemed very upset and was too liable to be caught on the wrong foot. The bustling tactics of the opposition had its effect, as it has before this season. The backs were not really confident, although both put in some excellent work during the afternoon.

Lee Kwai-shing was the shining light in defence. He made a number of typical clearances, fending the ball very cleanly. That the net was pierced three times was no fault of his.

Smith stood between the Chinese and goals.

TWO GOALS UP.

For three matches in succession now have the Borderers enjoyed a two-nil lead at the interval against the Chinese. It was Hazelwood who gave them the first goal, following some smart work on the left wing by Duncan and Jones. The ball rebounded off Pan and Hazelwood had only to tap it in.

The right wing paved the way for the second goal. Mathias and Hazelwood took the ball down and the winger put it square along the goal line, so that Jones had only to run in and connect with his foot. On both occasions the Chinese defence was spreadeagled.

The exchanges in this half were intensely thrilling. The Borderers asserted their lead, but the Chinese were great fighters and only Smith averted a reply goal before the interval.

China were prominent in the early stages of the second half and the Welshmen were sore pressed for a long time. It came as no surprise to see Lee Wai-tong, who had been waiting for the opportunity, nip through and beat Smith with a fast cross shot. It was a clever goal—the best of the match.

After this reverse the Borderers played better, and more than held their own. It came as a surprise to see Lee Wai-tong, who had been waiting for the opportunity, nip through and beat Smith with a fast cross shot. It was a clever goal—the best of the match.

I was assured by spectators in the position to see that Kety actually pushed the ball across with his hand and that Hazelwood rushed in to put the finishing touch.

Captain Hague, the referee, was obviously in two minds, but after consulting a linesman, he gave the decision in favour of the Welshmen. Whatever question there may be concerning the merits of the goal, I do not think it made any difference to the result. It came only three minutes from the end, and by that time the Chinese had lost their spirit and the Borderers were completely on top.

It was a pity such a fine match had to end on this doubtful note.

REFEREE ON DOYLE'S FOUL

Mr. G. H. Douglas Denies Boxer Used Carpenter Crouch

London, March 3.

Mr. G. H. Douglas, the referee in the Doyle-Petersen fight, in which Doyle was disqualified on a foul in the second round, described the incident in the King's Bench Division yesterday, and said that Doyle's low blows after he had had three warnings must have been deliberate.

The action by Jack Doyle was to test the legality of the British Boxing Board of Control's decision to refuse to pay him the £3,000 purse money.

The Board, who, with the White City Stadium Limited, defended the action, maintained that they were entitled to act as they did with the purse money.

The defence of the White City Stadium Limited was that they were not principals, but the agents of Joffe's company in promoting the contest.

before the formation of the Board the principal sufferers through the lack of control were the boxers themselves and the public who paid to see them.

"I can give you this example," he added. "There was an ugly incident about the contest between Jimmy Wilde and Pete Herman, an American boxer."

"No inquiries were made and one never heard what really happened. I think Jimmy Wilde probably lost his championship entirely through this sort of thing."

Mr. Justice MacKinnon: What do you mean by "that sort of thing"? Do you mean the referee was unfair?—No, I think there was something odd with the weighing. One always heard there was something odd about it.

Mr. Cecil Herbert Douglas, who is a steward of the Board, then gave evidence.

"I think," he said, "the fight had gone for a minute or a minute and a half when Doyle, in my opinion, struck Peter low. I cautioned him, and I think I cautioned him again for holding. He hit Petersen low again and very hard."

"I stopped them, and said: Doyle you have hit low with your right hand again. I shall not speak to you any more. This was during the first round."

"Just as the bell went Doyle hit Petersen low again. This contest being for the heavy-weight championship of Great Britain and having in mind the prestige of boxing, I thought that a minute's rest would enable Doyle to pull himself together."

I said to myself: 'Right; we shall give him another chance.' At the commencement of the second round (Continued on Page 9.)

INTERNATIONAL HOCKEY TOURNAMENT.

ENGLAND SHOULD HAVE BEATEN INDIA

CHANCES MISSED AT VITAL STAGES OF GAME

FAST HOCKEY IN SPITE OF RATHER DIFFICULT CONDITIONS.

England had only themselves to blame that they did not win the International Tournament final against India yesterday. With the opportunities to score presented to their inside forwards they should have been at least three goals in the lead at the end instead of drawing at two goals each.

The game was played on the No. 2 Marina ground and after the rains of the last two or three days the underfoot conditions were rendered very difficult. The game was not productive of the standard of hockey expected for some of the players could, on their form yesterday, have given a secer eleven a good game at charging especially in the latter stages, when excitement ran so high.

The encounter drew one of the largest crowds yet seen at a local hockey match.

TECHNICAL OFFENCES

On one of two occasions the "advantage" rule was overlooked by the umpires when the exercise of it might have greatly benefited the offended side. One glaring example occurred late in the first half when Lieut. Garthwaite was left with an open goal after an infringement by one of the Indians. Had he been permitted to try at goal he could not very easily have missed scoring.

Generally, however, the umpires kept a good check on the rough play which was inclined to show itself on occasions. Two members of the Indian team were cautioned for rough play the offenders being Kalwant Singh, the Radio forward, for deliberately striking an opponent's stick, and Sub. Taj Mohammed, of the Punjabis, for undercutting. It was from one of the latter's undercuts that Arthur Dand, the England captain, was struck in the face and injured. He was able to resume play after a short while when he took up position at outside right until the end of the game.

Owing to some misunderstanding as to the time fixed for the bully-off, H.J.D. Lowe, the English centre-half, did not turn up on the field until the end of the game; Willy Reed, the brilliant—Colony right half, was brought into the pivotal position, and Yeomans of the Lincolns filled the position vacated by him.

GOOD COMBINATION.

Yeomans put in some very useful work but was unable to cope with the speed and splendid stick-work of Lal Singh, the wizard Colony left wing.

The Indian forward line were an excellent combination especially on the left where Kalwant Singh and Lal Singh were continually a menace to the English defence. Lal Singh's speed and uncanny accuracy with the reverse stick shot gave the Indians openings time after time.

In the half line Dulla Singh, in the centre, was a tower of strength, and was responsible for breaking up many of the movements initiated by Atkinson and Garthwaite. M. H. Hussain also played a fine destructive game while Parduman Singh and Sub. Taj Mohammed proved their worth in the full back line.

As was expected Willy Reed was his usual brilliant self. He stopped everything and gave his attackers those neat, accurately placed passes with which he features his game.

Dand and Metenlie had plenty to do at back for England both showing good powers of recovery and clearing with lusty hits. Garthwaite, although more at home on the left, was a flashing forward and combined well with Bartlett and Atkinson. Bartlett did not show up as well as he has done in the previous games in which he has played this season, being rather on the slow side and not sure of his hitting. Atkinson played well at inside left, but his shooting was decidedly weak. On at least two occasions he should have netted goals but shot wide of the mark.

Hocquard on the left wing was responsible for a number of good passes to his inside men and showed a good turn of speed which he used to advantage.

INDIA SCORES FIRST.

The Indians took the lead in the first half, through Kalwant Singh, who scored with a scoop shot, after Atkinson had tested Nur Mohammed with a hot shot. England pressed for a long period, during which Garthwaite equalised as the result of a corner hit by Hocquard. In this period, Hocquard, Bartlett and Atkinson all missed opportunities of scoring. Mohammed made some fine saves. In the second half, England took the lead through Atkinson who followed up a rebound. India attacked strongly and a fine opening by Avtar Singh drew Hollingsworth out of his goal. The goalkeeper collided with Yeomans and fell to the ground. Lal Singh followed up and put the ball into the net but the goal was disallowed for offside. India continued to press and eventually obtained the equaliser through Kartar Singh. The end came with both teams pressing hard for victory.

The teams were as follows:
England: Hollingsworth (Army); A. A. Dand (Club) and Lieut. N. W. Metenlie (Army); Yeomans (Army); W. A. Reed (Club) and E. V. Reed (Club); Senior (Army), Lieut. C. C. Garthwaite (Army), Lieut. F. J. H. Bartlett (Navy), Lieut. Comd. T. K. W. Atkinson (Navy) and Lieut. J. H. Hocquard (Lincolns).

India: Nur Mohammed (Punjabis); Parduman Singh (Radio) and Subedar Taj Mohammed (Punjabis); M. H. Hussain (Radio), Dulla Singh (Punjabis) and Ala Din (Punjabis); Walsay Singh (Punjabis); Kartar Singh (Punjabis); Avtar Singh (Radio), Kalwant Singh (Radio) and Lal Singh (Punjabis).

Miss Boland are comedy characters, but there are many moments of drama and pathos in the film. They had any trouble in doing these exactly as they should have been done.

The Universal rousing picture of the African jungles, "Jungle Mystery" showing at the Oriental Theatre on Friday and Saturday with Tom Tyler, Noah Berry, Jr., Cecilia Parker, William Desmond and Philo McCullough in the principal roles. The thrilling story of two American adventures who encounter villainy, ferocious beasts, romance and a fortune of ivory in the Dark Continent is based upon Talbot Mundy's "The Ivory Trail" and is said to be transplanted to the screen with all of its hair-raising situations intact.

"Hips, Hips, Hooray" With office rents high, and the necessity for office agents, Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey demonstrate how to escape rent in their latest RKO-Radio musical extravaganza, "Hips, Hips, Hooray," showing at the King's Theatre with Ruth Etting, Dorothy Lee and Thelma Todd. "Hips, Hips, Hooray" is a musical, mad and merry in its story. In order to impress Dot Lee and Thelma Todd with their ability as salesmen of flavoured lipsticks, Wheeler and Woolsey phone a wealthy stock-broker that his home is afire. He leaves his office instantly, and that's how the boys get a free office without paying rent. But here start their complications set to love, laughter and hitting melodies which end in a laugh-cramped climax. Ruth Etting sings the current popular songs "Tired of It All" and "Keep Romance Alive" in "Hips, Hips, Hooray," while Dot Lee and Thelma Todd harmonize on "Keep on Doin' What You're Doin'." All three tunes were written by Harry Ruby and Bert Kalmar, who also collaborated with Edward Kaufman on the story. Mark Sandrich directed and Dave Gould arranged the spectacular dance scenes with the heavy of glittering beauties.

"Sons of the Desert" Is thoroughly rehearsed or spontaneous comedy the most effective? Should one follow the story closely or just use it as a guide? These two questions have been asked by screen comedians. Laurel and Hardy, whose latest Hal-Rench-M-G-M feature-length comedy, "Sons of the Desert," is coming on Friday to the Queen's, believe the best comedy is spontaneous and that the script should be followed closely only if no better ideas are forthcoming during production. They assert that comedy action that has been rehearsed too thoroughly is caught by the camera in such a manner that it appears mechanical and therefore forced. They go through their action in a light-hearted, mad sort of manner that generally keeps the rest of the cast in a continuous round of laughter. In the Chicago night club scene of "Sons of the Desert," when Hardy, accompanied by Laurel, meets his practical-joking brother-in-law, Charley Chase, the antics of the trio so upset the entire staff that this one scene had to be "shot" four different times before it was photographed correctly. Laurel's expression during one part of this action, proved so funny that it completely upset the equanimity of Hardy and it was several minutes before the latter was able to regain his composure. It is undoubtedly this light-hearted manner of working that makes the efforts of this pair so outstanding—funny. Their buffoonery takes on an air that places these two in a niche all their own. Other principals of the "Sons of the Desert" cast include Mae Busch, Dorothy Christy, and Lucien Littlefield. William Selter directed.

Romance with a new flavour is provided by a type of leading man new to the screen in "Eskimo." Tall, handsome, the swarthy son of the ice-lands has the features of a bronze statue. A great hunter and tribal leader, he stages the thrills of polar bear and walrus capture, the fight with the wolf, and such astounding action perfectly naturally—it is only what he has done all his life. He accompanied Knut Rasmussen, the explorer, on his expedition as interpreter, and learned to operate a camera. Later he was arrested by the Russian authorities in the Siberian ice-lands and in danger of execution, was in danger of execution of Communist authorities. It was through his association with these polar expeditions that the attention of Col. W. S. Dyke was attracted to him and he was cast in the picture.

You Can't Fool A "Blood Test"

CLAIMS are one thing; proof is another. For two generations the manufacturers of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have published letters from people who said they had recovered from weak, nervous, run-down, anemic conditions by the use of these pills. These people were not doctors; their evidence, truthful and authentic as it was, was not proof.

One Sure Test of Any "Blood" Remedy.

There is one sure proof of the efficiency of any remedy for thin blood, run-down, tired-out conditions. That is the power of the remedy to build up the haemoglobin content of the blood. Fortunately, modern science can accurately measure this.

In weak, run-down, anemic conditions the haemoglobin content of the blood is always below normal. The modern physician can tell pretty accurately just how much of the energy and strength you have from the haemoglobin content of your blood. If a blood test shows that your haemoglobin is 40% below normal then your energy, vigour and strength are also approximately 40% below normal.

What Haemoglobin Does

It's the haemoglobin in your blood that carries life-giving oxygen from the lungs and nutrients from the digestive organs to the innermost cells of every organ and tissue of the body. The haemoglobin also clears the system of poisons. A blood stream deficient in haemoglobin fails to properly build up the system and to clear it of poisons. To restore a run-down, anemic person to normal, the haemoglobin must be built up. A remedy that cannot do so is worthless. One that can do so safely, quickly and positively is a valuable medicinal preparation.

To prove the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills arrangements were made with a reputable physician to test a group of typical run-down, anemic patients. Blood tests were taken before the patients were started on a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and again one month later. There were eleven people in the group.

Results of The "Blood Test" of These Patients

Ten patients in the group increased their haemoglobin the first month as follows: 6%—7%—11% (two)—13%—15%—17%—20%—22%—24%.

These tests furnished absolute proof of the efficiency of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in building haemoglobin. The results, as a whole, being considered remarkable, particularly those showing increases of 20%, 22% and 24% in one month.

GANG ARRESTED

MEN RESPONSIBLE FOR
DARING ROBBERIES

Six men, comprising one of the most desperate gangs of robbers encountered by the Kowloon Police for some time, were rounded up in six different addresses in Mongkok and Shamshuipo between 10 p.m. on Friday and 9 a.m. on Saturday. These men, under the leadership of one who is believed to be a former pirate, are said to be responsible for the two daring robberies in Kowloon last month, when the cashiers of two money-changers' shops were held up at the point of the pistol and the robbers decamped with various sums of money. The robberies were so well-planned and so neatly perpetrated that the Police had the greatest difficulty in obtaining the slightest clue.

The Kowloon section of the Criminal Investigation Department, under Detective Inspector Dorling, has not relaxed its efforts to bring these men to justice. Recognising them as desperate and clever criminals, Inspector Dorling sent detectives all over the Colony and even into Chinese territory for information. After a month of assiduous investigation, Inspector Dorling had his men tracked down to six different addresses in Kowloon.

With a posse of European and Chinese detectives in plain clothes, Inspector Dorling swooped down on these houses on Friday night and arrested all the men he wanted. Although the raids lasted the whole night, it speaks volume for the Police organisation that none of these men had time to be warned before the officers of the law were literally at their doorsteps.

Leader Arrested.

It is a source of great satisfaction to the Police that the man they were really after was arrested without the slightest resistance. This man is known to the Police as an ex-pirate, and is believed to be

BURGLARY ATTEMPT.

CHINESE FOUND ON STAIRS OF CITY FLAT

On a charge of attempted burglary at No. 13 Hillier Street, second floor, the residence of Lam Ko, a clerk employed at the General Post Office, Kwun Yat-chi, 28, stated to be well-known to the Police, was sent to prison for three months by Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Police Court yesterday morning.

Defendant when arrested, was found to have in his possession a torch and a knife, while near his feet on the steps was a chisel. The door of the second floor had been damaged. Defendant stated he was there to look for his fourth uncle, named Ah Sze, but enquiries revealed that the third floor had been empty for the past twenty days.

Sub-Inspector Smith: The defendant is known to the Police. He was arrested last month by the larceny squad and detained. Enquiries were made, as he was suspected to be a member of a gang of bad characters, but there was not enough evidence to charge him.

the brains behind the organisation. In his possession the Police found two revolvers, one automatic pistol and 28 rounds of ammunition, but he realised the game was up and submitted quietly.

Six Men in Court.

Before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday six men were charged with committing robbery at the Mei Hung Chan money-changers at No. 68 Shanghai Street, on February 18, and all except one are charged with a robbery at 109 Keeling Street. One of the men also faces a further charge of being in possession of arms without a permit, while a third is charged with returning from banishment.

MODERN FACTORY

A NEW LOCATION FOR COMMERCIAL PRESS

An extension of the work of the Chinese Commercial Press is about to be undertaken with the completion of the new factory covering an area of 150,000 square feet at North Point.

From the very small beginnings 35 years ago, the concern has become the largest of its kind in China, the important part it has taken in the cultural and educational growth of the country being gauged by the fact that from its works at Shanghai and Peking hundreds of thousands of textbooks are turned out a year.

When Sino-Japanese hostilities broke out at Shanghai at the end of 1931, the very extensive works of the Company at Chapel were totally destroyed by the Japanese guns, and the changed circumstances brought about the necessity of an orientation of policy. In the following year, the decision was reached to concentrate on the Hongkong branch, and a site for a new, larger and more up-to-date works to replace the present one at Kennedy Town, was purchased from the Government, on the foreshore at North Point, directly opposite the Ming Yuen film studio. This site was reclaimed and construction of the half-million dollar plant commenced last year, has now been completed.

One of the most modern factories of its kind in Hongkong, it will give employment to 3,500 workers of both sexes.

Machinery at a cost of $400,000 is being moved into the building, which fronts the 100 feet-wide Shaaukwan Road.

The plans for the building were prepared by Messrs. Leigh and Orange, the well-known local firm of architects, while Messrs. Sing Kee were the contractors.

STRIKE SPREADS COTTON WORKERS JOIN RESTIVE MINERS

Tientsin, Apr. 2.
The industrial situation in Tsingtau has been complicated by a strike at the Huansin Cotton Mill, which coming on top of the industrial upheaval brought about by the miners' strike is causing much concern here.

Over 1,000 strikers from the Kailan Mines and the Huansin

Cotton Mill to-day surrounded the Luantung Administrator's office and presented demands in connection with their dispute.

Up to dusk last night, the combined strikers were still surrounding the Administrator's office, refusing requests to disperse.

The cotton strikers are enrolled in a new labour body, which has been organised by Chao To-chung and others, who are alleged to be on friendly terms with Manchukuo.—Reuter.

SOVIET MYSTERY SHIP

Compelled to Seek Shelter

PHILIPPINE SEIZURE FEARS

NEUTRALITY PACT SOUGHT

AFTER GAINING OF INDEPENDENCE

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1934. Received April 3, 10.30 a.m.)

Washington, Apr. 2. With independence for the Philippines practically agreed upon, anxiety is being expressed in some quarters regarding guarantees against seizure of the islands by some other Power.

Senator David A. Reed, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, told the United Press that all the countries likely to be interested, including Soviet Russia, should be invited to sign a Treaty for the permanent neutralization of the Philippines after independence from the United States has been gained.

POSITION HAZARDOUS.

Senator Reed said he regarded the position of the Philippines to be very hazardous unless such a Treaty proved possible to negotiate. He believed no great difficulty would be experienced and suggested that it should prove just as easy as the European guarantees of the neutrality of Switzerland and Holland.

PRINCIPAL NATIONS.

"The principal nations participating in such a Treaty," said Senator Reed, "should be Russia, Japan and China as neighbors and England, France and Italy as great sea Powers, the United States and possibly one or two other countries having interests in the Far East."

LORD CARSON VERY ILL

NO IMPROVEMENT YESTERDAY

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1934. Received April 3, 9.58 a.m.)

London, April 2. No change has occurred to-day in the condition of Lord Carson, the famous veteran Irish political leader.

He is still very ill although a slight improvement was recorded last night.—Reuter.

BETTER WEATHER?

The anticyclone has moved rapidly eastward, and is now centered in the vicinity of Tokyo. A shallow depression covers South Manchuria. Local forecast:—East winds, moderate; cloudy with occasional rain, probably improving.

FOUR MEN UNDER ARREST

CHIEF OF STAFF TAKES CHARGE

"SHIPMATE'S VOICE"

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1934. Received April 3, 10.30 a.m.)

Washington, April 3. Vague rumours of disaffection in the United States Fleet have been followed by an official disclosure that an investigation has been ordered.

Four men in the Navy have been placed under arrest on suspicion of Communist activities and large quantities of seditious literature have been seized.

The trouble appears to be centered on San Pedro, where the United States Fleet is at present based, but it is not thought that the Communist influences have made very much progress.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

Rumours were translated into facts in the course of an official statement by the U.S. Navy Department, revealing that Captain A. Andrews, Chief of Staff of the United States Battle Fleet, has been instructed to investigate alleged Communist attempts to undermine the morale of the Fleet at San Pedro.

The investigation was ordered, it is disclosed, following the arrest of four men who are charged with distributing a magazine titled "The Shipmate's Voice."

The journal attached importance to the alleged mutiny in British battleships in 1931.

The news was confirmed by the United Press correspondent at San Pedro, who says that Captain Andrews has ordered an investigation to determine whether Communist literature is being propagated among the men of the Fleet.

ARRESTED MAN'S ADMISION.

Things reached a head when the arrest of a man named John C. Britton was ordered. Britton is a man of thirty-one years of age. He admitted that he had been selling Communist pamphlets.

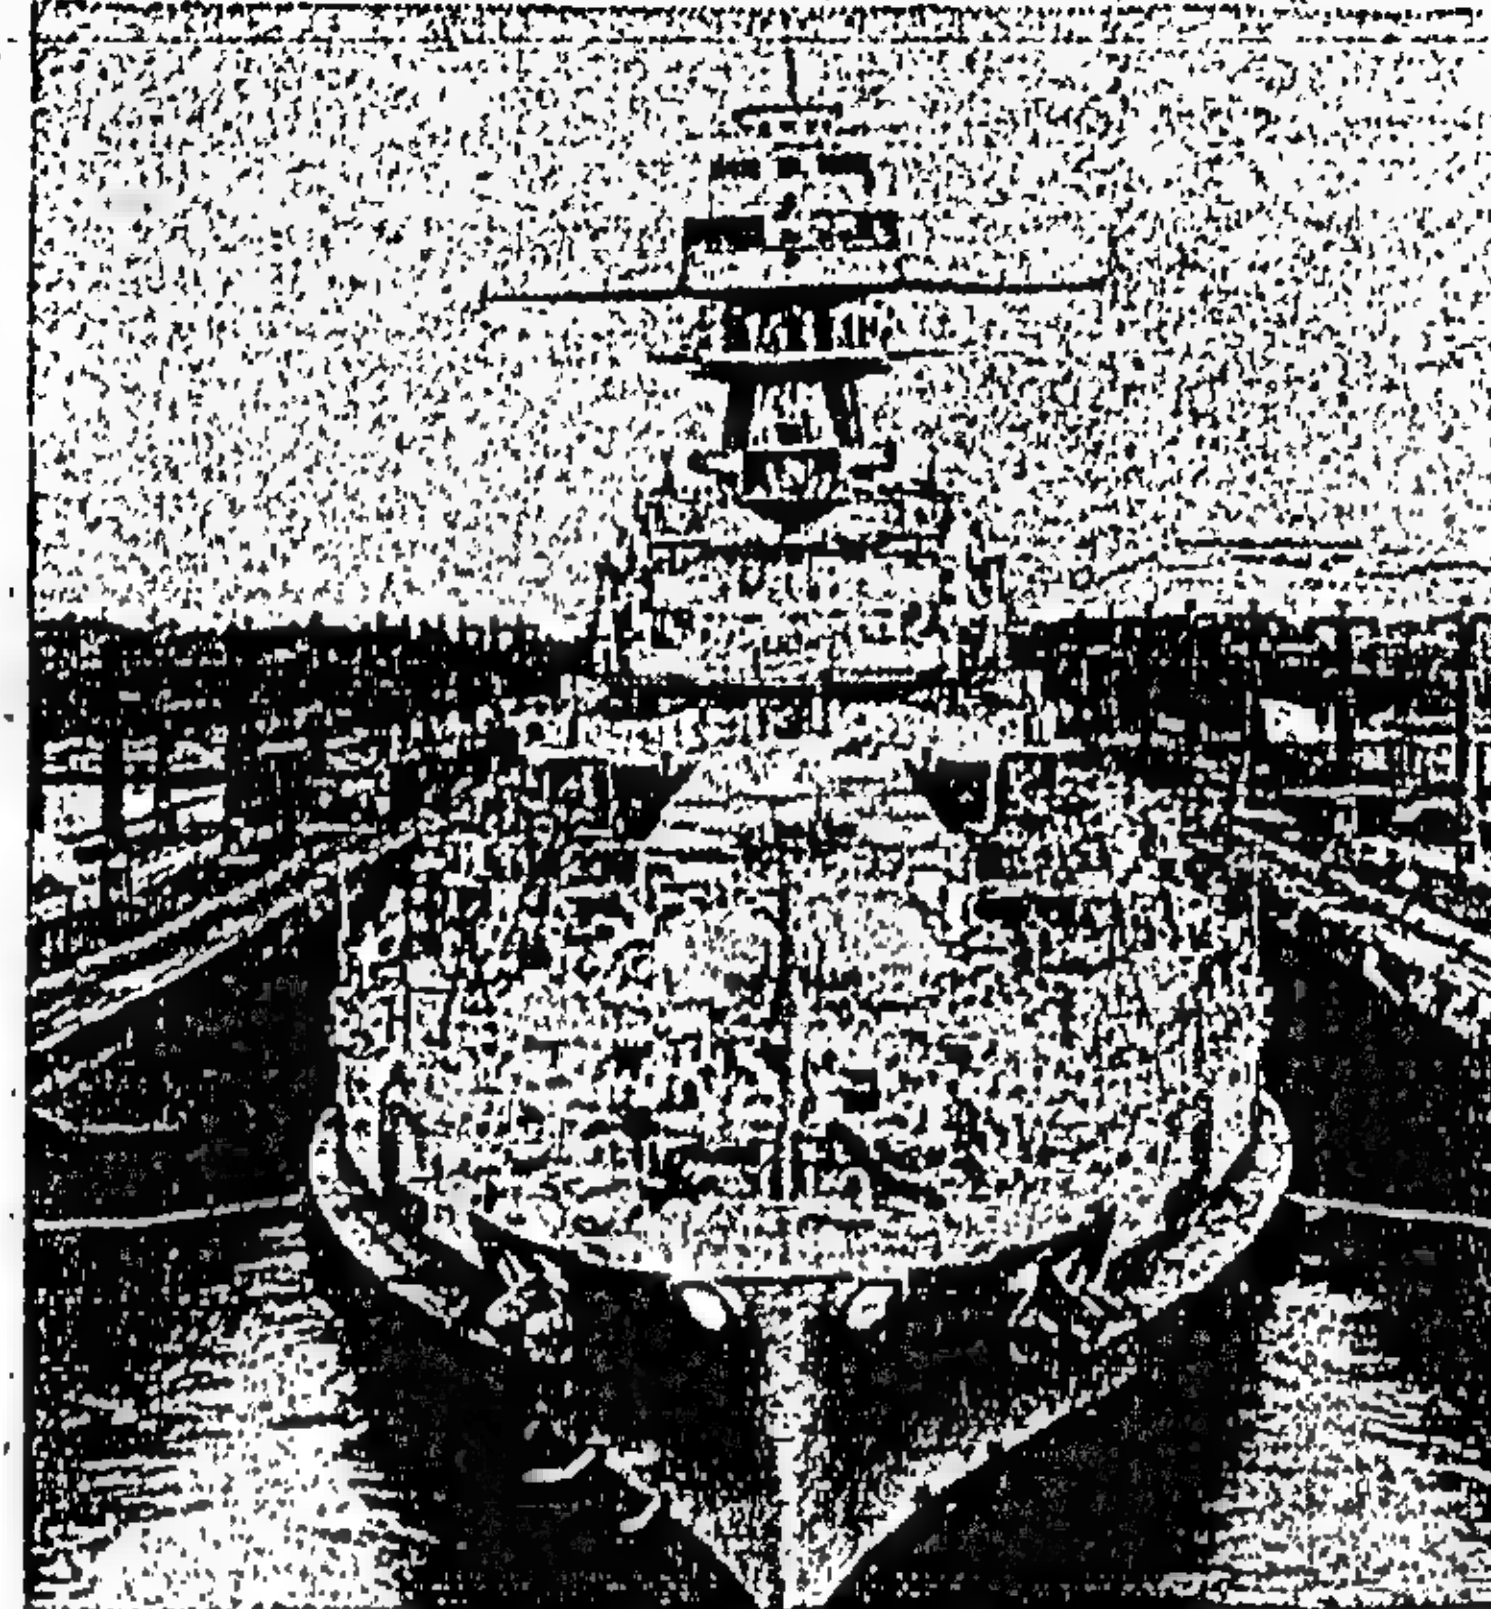

Several thousand allegedly highly seditious pamphlets are reported to have been seized by the naval authorities.—United Press.

TRADE ALLIANCE POSSIBLE

PLANNED ECONOMY FOR WHOLE WORLD

SCHEME EVOLVED IN LONDON

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1934. Received, April 3, 7.14 a.m.)

LONDON, APRIL 2.

A NEW ERA OF WORLD-WIDE ECONOMIC COOPERATION MAY SOON BE USHERED IN AS THE RESULT OF THE LABOURS IN ENGLAND OF MR. RICHARD WASHBURN CHILDS, PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S "ROVING ECONOMIC EXPERT."

Mr. Childs to-day disclosed in an interview with the United Press that he is nearing the conclusion of a fortnight's special mission in Britain, which has met with a warm response.

A scheme has been evolved, he declared, which will mean worldwide planned economy, on the basis of permanent bilateral organs.

Already certain interesting proposals have been advanced which will cement trade relations between the United States and the British Isles.

MR. WASHBURN CHILD'S MISSION

The scheme propounded by Mr. Childs visualises an extension of the suggestions for Britain and the United States to all countries in the world.

As a result of his discussions in London, it is contemplated that Anglo-American trade relations may entail the appointment of two High Commissioners, one a Briton and one an American, functioning for three hundred and sixty-five days a year, possibly spending half their time in the United States and half in Britain, preparing, for instance, reciprocal tariff agreements, quota and other trade agreements.

It was explained by Mr. Childs that other Commissioners could act in similar manner between the United States and other countries and between the other countries themselves.

SCHEME EVOLVED IN ENGLAND. The scheme was evolved, he said, following a series of conferences with British business leaders, members of the British Government from the departments interested in economic affairs, and leading British economists.

The idea is the planning of the world's trade, guiding it into the best channels for general efficiency.

JAPANESE COMPETITION. One of the aspects which had to be considered in this connexion and it formed one of the most important objectives of his European journey was the question of Japanese competition. He had been instructed to make an investigation of the importance of Japanese trade competition in Europe and elsewhere and he had already discussed the topic with British experts.

GOING TO DUBLIN. Mr. Childs is leaving London for Dublin on Friday, when he will see Mr. de Valera, the President of the Irish Free State Council.

He expects to be in Ireland for a few days only, after which he will proceed to Paris.

W. E. C. REVIVAL? It is reported that Mr. R. W. Childs, who was formerly U.S. Ambassador to Italy and economic expert to Mr. Cordell Hull at the World Economic Conference, while carrying out President Roosevelt's instructions concerning reciprocal trade schemes, is also sounding out the advisability of reviving the World Economic Conference.—United Press.

THE BUDGET DEFICIT. A deficit of a hundred million drachmas at the end of the just concluded financial year was disclosed by the Minister of Finance when presenting the Budget in the Chamber.

He estimated the receipts for the coming year at 8,668,000,000 drachmas, though it is hoped, by means of impending measures of economy, to reduce this to 150,000,000 drachmas.

The Budget provides for the transfer of 85 per cent. of the interest on Greek foreign debts and the Minister added that an agreement on this matter will be enforced shortly.—Reuter.

Mr. Richard Washburn Child.

I.L.P. RELATIONS WITH MOSCOW

DECIDE AGAINST AFFILIATION

IMPOSSIBLE!

London, Apr. 2. An important debate took place to-day at the annual conference held at York of the Independent Labour Party on the question of the active association of the I.L.P. with the Third International.

The conference met under the presidency of Mr. James Maxton, the well-known Left Wing M.P.

The relations of the Party with Moscow and the question of affiliation with the Communist International occupied the attention of the delegates for the greater part of the day.

The Conference finally rejected a motion in favour of immediate affiliation with Moscow and adopted by 102 votes to 64 the recommendation of the Party Executive that affiliation with the Communist International must be regarded as impossible in present circumstances.—Reuter.

The Nanking authorities deny any intention of taking preliminary steps toward the adoption of a gold standard, or the devaluation of the silver dollar.—Central News.

Constant Powdering Bad For Skin

Says Specialist

Many women feel that they must be constantly dabbing on powder in order to prevent thin noses or glaucous faces. They never stop to realize what effect this may have upon their skin.

A new and clever idea now enables any woman to powder once in the morning and have it last all day. A reasonable amount of moisture of cream added to a favourite face powder makes it clinging and adherent. It stays on in spite of sun, wind or rain and even in the hottest ballrooms.

In Poudre Tokalon, the moisture of cream is scientifically blended with the finest air-floated powder. Thus, Poudre Tokalon is the only genuine moisture of cream face powder. It acts as a splendid skin tonic, stimulating the tissues and never clogging the pores—such as constant powdering may do. Apply Poudre Tokalon to-morrow morning to your own face and watch results.

SIAMESE STUDENTS.

ANNIVERSARY MEETING AT CHINA EMPORIUM

Over sixty members of the Siamese Students' Association in China gathered at the China Emporium last night, on the occasion of the anniversary of the Association.

Among those present were Dr. and Mrs. M. O. Pfister, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Barton, Very Rev. Fr. D. MacDonald, and the Very Rev. Fr. Burke.

Addressing the gathering, the President, Mr. T. Y. Ng-sunwan, said:

I am glad to have the opportunity to stand before you again for the second time. I feel proud of the large gathering here to-night, and am thankful, especially for the presence of our Hon. Members and other guests of honour.

I was President of the Association last year, and am again elected this year, for which I feel very thankful. I want all members to know of the affairs of the Association, and hope I have done my duties to the satisfaction of all of you. I will do my best again this year for the Association.

The Association was founded

this day last year, with the special permission from His Majesty the King of Siam, who has graciously donated a hundred dollars. Moreover, H. E. M. General Phya Indra Viji, the Siamese Minister Plenipotentiary at Tokyo, has been appointed to be guardian of the Association in order to give every possible assistance to us.

The aim of the Association is not only to foster the spirit of brotherhood, but also to render assistance and facilities to the Siamese students in China and those who pass through Hongkong.

In conclusion, I wish to express my thanks to every member for their sincere co-operation in the different affairs of the Association, and hope you will exert more energy to the activity of the Association, for the general good of every one of us.

Following the Toast of Their Majesties, the King and Queen, Dr. Pfister, addressing the gathering, dealt reminiscently with the days of his youth when he became acquainted with Prince Rangsit, and was appointed Court Physician to H. M. King Chulalongkorn.

Other speeches were given by the Rev. Fathers Burke and MacDonald, and Mr. L. A. Barton.

partiality and integrity which that element has established. The present total of British civil officials in India is only about three thousand for a population of 350 millions. Already there are more Indians than British in the highly-paid posts of the Administration. But the British are necessary, as experience shows, not only for good administration, but to protect the interests of the unrepresented masses of the poor.

5. On the above conditions, transfer the remaining field of Provincial Administration to the control of the Provincial Legislatures, subject, as at present, to recall, if abused; but retain non-legislative control of the Courts and Police, the two pillars of British justice and security, till experience shows that they can be safely made over to legislative control, province by province.

This rough outline may serve to show how Parliament can reconcile its responsibility for the welfare and advancement of the Indian peoples, with its policy of furthering, "by stages," the gradual development of self-governing institutions.

But it should be clear that if and when that final stage is reached, Great Britain—which is no more an "alien" Power in India than those that preceded it, which has alone protected India from invasion and chaos, and which has brought India to a stage of development far above that of any other Oriental country—must continue to be represented as at least an equal partner with British India and the Indian States. Only in that way can India remain "an integral part of the British Empire," as postulated in the Act of 1919, and as desired by the immense majority in British India and by all the Indian States.

GERMANS AT LAW

RADIO SET ACTION FAILS

Germans figured in a dispute this morning at the Supreme Court where, before Mr. Justice Lindsell, Puleno Judge, Brandt & Co., Ltd., of 5, Queen's Road Central, sued W. G. Haeke, c/o Jimmy's Kitchen, for $200.

Mr. P. T. K. Kemble represented defendant, and Mr. A. of Arculli appeared for plaintiff.

The claim was for the balance of money due on a radio set sold by plaintiff.

In the witness box, defendant admitted receiving the set, but said it was not up to the description given when he decided to buy with costs.

Evidence was given by a friend of the plaintiff that the set was useless to him as a German, but he must have been a poor German.

Evidence was given for plaintiff, and his Lordship awarded judgment for the defendant with costs.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

YESTERDAY'S MARKET STEADY

According to Messrs. Swan Culbertson and Fritts, the New York market was steady yesterday. Business done 1,370,000 shares. The Wall Street Journal reports: The market was generally upward due to the most optimistic tone as Wall Street placed a more favourable interpretation on the current business outlook. Mining share movements were mixed with gold mining shares touching new highs for the year. Utilities eased off on N.Y. State investigation. Ralls were firm. Curb stocks were irregular due to the weakness in utilities. Bonds were higher with speculative and domestic corporation bonds making the best gains.

Our New York Office Cable—Stocks: The market continues to show quiet strength with oils, merchandising and gold shares in best demand. Wheat: The market was waterlogged on account of uncertainty of further restrictions checking all trade. Private estimates of the winter crop reported five hundred million bushels. Visible supply is decreasing and farm holdings are light. Cotton: Continued liquidation, lack of demand and Mr. Wallace's lukewarm statement as to the operation of the Bankhead Bill caused uneasiness. There was increasing apprehension over the expansion of foreign growth as we curtail. Status of the Bankhead Bill remains unchanged. Owing to strong effort by silver group, legislation in expectation next week. Crop preparation well advanced. Stocks quiet and steady. Silver: Speculators were inactive but moderately bullish particularly in anticipation of favourable action by Senate on the Dies Bill. The Closing New York/London cross rate was 6.13%.

KNOW

One piece of local reform which we should like to see instituted is the use of more popular and informative language in the "Objects and Reasons" attached to local Ordinances. More often than not, there is no statement of the intentions of the framers of the law or of the grounds on which the intentions are based. For the most part, the "Objects and Reasons" are confined to laboured legal explanations of the origin of various clauses. Even these are altogether meaningless without reference back to previous Ordinances. To the legal profession, this may not greatly matter, since the text of the Ordinance sets forth the enactment in detail, but the newspaper which seeks to acquaint the public of the main features of new laws finds that it is practically impossible to obtain from the "Objects and Reasons" the really essential points. It has to be borne in mind that the average resident—and it is he who is mostly affected by changes in the law—seldom sees the Government Gazette, in which the drafts of proposed Ordinances are given. He naturally looks to the newspapers for his information. Obviously Ordinances cannot be reprinted in full by the Press, whilst to discover the respects in which proposed new laws differ from those already in force, or from those which it may be intended to repeal, would often involve so much research as to rule out the attempting of the task. The difficulties may be illustrated by a reference to the draft Ordinance dealing with the entry and departure of persons into and out of the Colony. Attached to the law is a table which gives the sources of the various clauses, some of which are based on Straits Settlements Ordinances and others on existing Hongkong laws and regulations which are being modified and incorporated in the new Bill. No difficulty is experienced in tracing totally new provisions which do not come within any of these three categories, but it is impossible to say at a glance whether, and, if so, to what extent, some of the other provisions represent a change from existing requirements. The "Objects and Reasons" are no real guide, any more than were those attached to another recent Bill dealing with a related subject, the registration of persons. The public is often reminded that it is supposed to be fully acquainted with the law. Surely the best method of ensuring that it is would be to utilise all available means for the purpose.

NOTES OF THE DAY

SECURITY GUARANTEES

Things have been moving quickly during the last six or seven days in the sphere of disarmament. Britain's leadership remains the most hopeful source of achievement, chiefly because of the widespread feeling in Europe that Britain's guarantee can be trusted, where they dare not trust each other's without it. And there is no longer any doubt that progress cannot be made without more specific guarantees of execution in the proposed Convention. Once again, British policy seems to have undergone modification to bring it into line with changed circumstances and further commitments are possible—if a clear understanding with the United States proves possible.

SANCTIONS

The impression given that the British Government is vacillating in its disarmament policy is wholly false. There may be flexibility in the means to the end but inflexible is the determination to secure an agreement, however much it may be short of the ideal, that will give a new stability to European relations for the next ten years. Thus far, the Government has pursued a perfectly clear line. Further commitments are certain to be criticised, but those in sympathy with the idea of a collective guarantee of peace through the League of Nations will not cavil. If it is agreed that the world cannot yet do without sanctions if it is desired to ensure the peace, they might just as well be strong and speedy in application.

REGIONAL PACTS

Britain's recent questions to France and M. Corbin's answers reveal very clearly, once again, what is really expected of Britain if she wants a disarmament agreement. When Sir Austen Chamberlain signed the Locarno Pact, guaranteeing the Franco-German frontier, it was hoped that similar regional pacts would guard against the other possible sources of war in Europe. But because Britain would not be a party to them, they have never been signed. Sir John Simon's enquiry on this issue of regional guarantees implies further consideration of Britain's policy and a possible change. There is certainly a growing appreciation of the logic of the French case in British official circles.

FRANCE AND BELGIUM

M. Barthou's visit to Brussels has strengthened the hand of France. The Count de Broqueville's recent address to the Belgian Senate telling them that they must admit of Germany's rearmament caused an alarm not justified by the circumstances, but inspired by the general feeling of tension. Immediately, the fear was expressed in Paris that the death of King Albert might loosen the close cooperation on foreign and military policy that has endured since the War. It was, of course, something of a surprise to find the mutual concession thesis adopted so energetically in Brussels. M. Hymans was, however, able to assure M. Barthou that there is no fundamental divergence in French and Belgian policies.

IMPLIED COMPLIMENT

The Republican Party in the United States by implication pays President Roosevelt a high compliment. The leaders admit they are waiting for him to make a serious blunder before they can produce an effective campaigning issue for the Congressional elections which are scheduled for November next. That it has not appeared after over a year of high speed experimentation and reform can only mean sound judgment, not the luck which is all his critics will credit the President with.

SUCCESS OR FAILURE?

It is still too soon to pass judgment on Mr. Roosevelt's programme of reconstruction. The ultimate criterion must be success or failure, and of that it is likely to be many months before we can know the issue. Some of his measures must continue to arouse considerable scepticism. For instance, the policy of still higher wages and shorter hours, reiterated in his anniversary broadcast yesterday, and again the attempt, not yet apparently abandoned, to lower pay prices by manipulation of the exchanges, seem more calculated to retard than to advance the attainment of his objectives. Moreover, a rapid and extensive revival of prosperity will be needed to justify the vast burden of public debt which he is proposing to pile up over the next eighteen months, or thereabouts, while the success of the system Mr. Roosevelt is creating remains problematical, the failure of that which he found is a matter of history.

INDIA'S FUTURE

By SIR MICHAEL O'DWYER, G.C.I.E., K.C.S.I.

THE White Paper proposals for the good government and satisfaction of India have two cardinal faults: They do not give good government and they do not give satisfaction.

As to good government, they put the Army and Police under different masters and thereby imperil security; they eliminate the British personnel from nearly all the Services and thereby lower efficiency; they vastly increase expenditure and thereby threaten bankruptcy.

As to satisfaction, no single body of Indian opinion is willing to accept them as they stand; the Princes insist on drastic alterations; the Congress extremists repudiate the whole scheme; the Indian Liberals reject the safeguards; the orthodox Hindus reject the Poona Pact; the Punjab Sikhs and Hindus will not submit to a Moslem majority; the non-official Europeans are divided and nervous; the anxiety of the Indian Civil Service is "impossible to exaggerate"; the great Moslem minority are alarmed at the prospect of a Central Government mainly Hindu, and some hope to form a Mohammedan Federation in the North-West. Altogether, the scheme, which aims at satisfying the "moderate politicians," satisfies nobody in India and is causing increasing alarm here to all who have interests in India.

The White Paper may be modified by the Joint Committee, but its errors are fundamental because it is based on the wrong assumption that you can by a stroke of the pen transplant democracy to India. On the other hand, there are the pledges in the Act of 1919 and the expectations aroused. This leads to the question often asked: "What is the alternative to the White Paper?" Let me endeavour to answer that question with respect both to the pledges and the essentials of good government—as well as the integrity of the British Empire.

If we look first for our basic principle we shall find it nowhere better expressed than in the Government of India's classic despatch of September 20, 1930, in which Lord Irwin and his Council stated their views on the proposals of the Simon Commission. There (in para. 230) what they call the "essence" of their proposals is "that control (British) should be of such a nature as to establish partnership in place of subordination."

With this principle of partnership they maintain also the responsibility and control of Parliament (see paras. 19 and 225) in the most essential matters. Again (in para. 133) they speak not only of a partnership between Great Britain and India in the Government, but partnership in the Legislature as well as in the Executive, and to that they retain the power of nomination. Obviously, also the principle of partnership which already exists in the Services should apply to the Executives and Legislature in the Provinces.

These are the views of Lord Irwin and his Council—four British and three Indian members—and this fundamental principle of partnership was not challenged at the three Round Table Conferences. On the contrary, Sir Samuel Hoare, at the close of the Third (on December 24, 1931) himself emphasised this principle of partnership.

"We have been confronted with the problem of reconciling the claims of three partners who have for many generations been united in an undertaking of far-reaching ramifications; Great Britain on the one hand, British India on the other, and Indian India on the other. The old Articles of Association were getting out of date; a new bond of union had to be found... the new bond must be the bond of an All-India Federation with the rights of each of the three parties effectively safeguarded."

Here, then, are these two basic principles—partnership, and the responsibility of the British Parliament. The White Paper eliminates both; for partnership it substitutes surrender. It is exactly as if the principal partner in an old-established business were to propose to abandon all the functions of partnership and to become instead the chowkidar or watchman at the door. So in India, under the White Paper, we retain the Army, thereby exposing ourselves to the charge of governing by force alone but abandon every function of Government. In my view, we can have no satisfactory scheme which is not based on this principle of partnership.

On these assumptions let us now venture on the main lines of an alternative scheme:

1. Frame the Constitution so as to provide, if and when feasible, for an All-India Federation based on the voluntary association of the Provinces and self-governing States with Great Britain (hitherto the senior partner) for certain common purposes. In the meantime create the Council of Greater India, representing British India and the States, to discuss matters of common concern, as proposed by the Statutory Commission.

2. The Central Government to remain responsible to the British Crown and Parliament, as proposed by the Commission, at least until a stable All-India Federation is established. When that is done the control of Parliament might be restricted to those essential imperial responsibilities enumerated in the Government of India despatch (para. 225). This would leave to the Government of India a considerable and growing measure of independence.

3. In the Central and Provincial Governments, Great Britain's partnership in the Indian Empire to be recognised by adequate British representation, not only in the Executives, but in the Legislatures, and also in all the important Services. By this provision we sweep away all that irritating but futile paraphernalia of Safeguards, Emergency Powers, and Special Responsibilities, which surround the White Paper as with broken glass and barbed wire. The safeguards will not be external but internal. We thereby promote efficient, impartial and stable administration, reduce communal tension, protect minorities and encourage the Princes to come into a scheme in which the Sovereign Power is adequately represented. The difficulty of providing a sufficient number in the Legislature to represent the British partner is not insoluble.

4. Maintain in all the important Services—General Administration, Judiciary, Police, Public Works, Irrigation, Forests, Agriculture, Public Health, &c.—a British element adequate to the maintenance of the standards of efficiency, immutability.

The Very Idea!

CRACKED EASTER EGGS

By George

EASTER was a bad egg this year for all of us. Before it cracked we were broke and by the time it was hatched it was All Fools Day.

To start at the beginning we may say that Good Friday threatened to be really Good this year what with pay day unfortunately coinciding and the banks holding out on us. There were plenty of shroffs anxious to give us change if we handed over the cheque to them but there were none willing to change it. In the end it came to a question of paying our board or buying a paper, and since we loathe creating precedents we chose the latter.

Friday was a wet pallid of misery and we spent the day trying to balance the humidity outside with Scotch inside and it was very successful as a scientific experiment. Each time the barometer fell a point our spirits rose a pint, and when we began to see two barometers and both of them falling, the pace became something awful. Atmospheric pressure is a great thing in its place—which is not at the night after. We had to carry our face about on a tray the next day and when we showed it outside it looked so rotten a rickshaw coolie refused to take it as a fare.

At The Races

However, we unfortunately recovered in time to go to the races and that is where we fell down badly.

The falling habit is fearfully infectious. The flag would fall; the horses would run and then the one we had backed would fall down; and then we would fall down. Expensive falls at five bucks a time and if ever an animal lover eulogises the "noblest animal" to us again he will learn something of bucking horses that will shock his ingenuous soul.

We tried several systems without success and risked ten dollars to win about fifty cents.

Remembering that "the race is not to the swift but to the sure" we backed one or two of the cart horse breed but found that even when they managed to stay the distance they stayed too long doing it.

The race was well over while the horse was still arguing with the starters and demanding a rebate of the money it had laid on itself. Interviewed afterwards the indignant animal protested against the growth of graft in what used to be an honourable profession.

Horse Makes Statement

"It is enough to make one take to the streets," said she tossing a manured hoof playfully in our direction.

A tip from the horse's hoof was not what we had come for and we left her "wrapped in her" jacket practising its starts.

We tried backing on the law of averages and our losses averaged five bucks on each race. Without tips we lost money and with tips we lost friends—which is another way of saying the same thing.

One of the hottest nags we picked out was drawn for the outside position and she seemed a real straightforward horse. The bits of her face you could see had determination written all over them and we heard one of the fraternity exclaim "What a figure!" We didn't know what the figure was but the horse certainly was attractive.

She got going well from the flag, hit up a tremendous amount of mud from her exhaust in the straight, and skidded round the corners on two legs. It was a thrilling sight to see her draw away, responding gallantly to the passionate endearments of her jockey. On the last corner she slipped a couple of lengths through looking backwards but she was still leading by about a quarter of a mile.

Horse Patriotic

The band struck up the National Anthem as she turned on to the last straight run and she lost all but fifty lengths before she started again.

There was still time. The crowd yelled themselves hoarse with excitement as she crawled near and nearer. Suddenly she slowed down to a canter. The crowd held its breath—a few of them too long. What was the favourite going to do?

Then a great hush fell over the crowd. The horse was risking the race to smell the beautiful flowers that lined the course on the important side of the winning post. She smelt them once, twice, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, eleven, twelve, thirteen, fourteen, fifteen, sixteen, seventeen, eighteen, nineteen, twenty, twenty-one, twenty-two, ARSENAL'S BEST

BRILLIANT WIN
AT DERBY

GRIMSBY SHOCK BRENTFORD

CHELSEA'S RISE

London, April 2.
Easter Monday's crop of soccer upsets was much smaller than usual, but some of the results had important influence in the promotion and relegation problems.

Arsenal again lead the First Division. They brought off one of their best performances of the season in defeating Derby County by four goals to two at Derby. Huddersfield were not engaged. Portsmouth and Manchester City, the Cup finalists, were both defeated by four clear goals. Portsmouth have had a shocking Easter with three defeats, two at home, eight goals against and none for. Chelsea's four goals against Pompey gave them maximum points for the holidays, lifting them out of bottom position in the table for the first time since early season.

BRENTFORD SHOCKED.

Brentford's promotion hopes received a setback when the Second Division leaders, Grimsby, took both points from Griffin Park. Only two more points are needed by Grimsby to guarantee the championship. Bolton and Preston have both passed Brentford in the race for runners-up position.

Norwich City went further ahead in the Southern Section and are practically uncatchable, though Queen's Park Rangers atoned for their Reading defeat by a smart win over Bristol City.

Crystal Palace won sensationally by five clear goals at Gillingham, while Brighton provided the biggest surprise by a victory at Luton.

STOCKPORT FALTER

In the Northern Section, Stockport County again went down to defeat and will, almost certainly, have to give up their bid for the championship. Carlisle surprised Gateshead and Barnsley jumped into the list of century goal scorers by a six-one victory over Mansfield.

MRS. BOYS RELEASED

OPIUM CARRYING

NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR ACTIONS

The case against Mrs. J. Boys and a Chinese woman named Leung Ying, who were charged with being in possession of 300 taels of opium outside the Kowloon Canton Railway Station on the evening of March 25, came to an abrupt conclusion at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning when both defendants were discharged by Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones.

It will be recalled that when the two defendants were first brought into Court, it was stated that Mrs. Boys had once been certified as feeble-minded, and the case was remanded in order to allow her to be placed under mental observation.

Dr. J. B. Mackie, Medical Officer in charge of the Leichikok Female Prison, testified that he had known Mrs. Boys off and on for over a year. During the last seven days, he had kept her under mental observation.

DOCTOR'S VIEW.

His Worship:—Do you consider that her state of mind is such that she is capable of comprehending the nature and results of her actions?

Dr. Mackie:—No, your Worship. His Worship (to Inspector Lane):—That being so, she must be discharged.

Mrs. Boys was accordingly discharged.

With regard to the second defendant, Inspector Lane said the police had no evidence to offer. The only evidence they had was that of the first defendant.

The second defendant was thereupon also discharged.

His Worship ordered the opium to be confiscated.

BORDERERS' GREATEST DISPLAY OF THE SEASON

CUP COMMENTS

PAU KAP-ING AND THE LEEK

MERRIMENT ON CLUB GROUND

(By "Veritas").

A HOLIDAY crowd for a holiday match; but where was the holiday weather! Nevertheless it needed more than a nasty drizzle to dampen the spirits of those vociferous Welsh supporters and the excited Chinese partisans.

WELSH looks there were in abundance. One, an outsize in this national vegetable, caused merriment, then consternation, then more merriment.

ITS wearers tied it to the net in the Chinese goal. It worried Pau Kap-ing, who was having quite enough trouble with Welshmen without being asked to nurse their ebullience.

SO he asked the referee to stop the game, who asked the soldier to remove the offender, who in turn asked the crowd what they thought about it, who... but why go on?

THE only thing I missed was a rendition of "Aberystwyth".

LEE Wai-tong was given a special ovation. It was a real treat to see this artistic footballer in action again.

WITH his help, South China would have won the championship this year.

JONES scored his usual goal, and made two valiant, but unsuccessful efforts to hook others.

UNDERWOOD'S inability to kick with his right foot nearly put his team into trouble. It is passing strange that a footballer of his experience should have neglected to develop a double foot kick.

WHO is Tao Kwai-shing numbers of spectators were asking. I believe I am right in stating that he formerly played for Chinese Athletic, then dropped out of football and has lately joined up with South China.

A NOTHER capacity crowd on the Club ground. If one's judgment is not at fault the allocations to local charity will be greater than last year.

EVEN if the Borderers fail to achieve the triple—Senior Shield, Charity Cup and League, they will go down in posterity as the team of the year. Unnoticed three months ago, they have risen to a state of eminence and popularity that they are the best drawing card in local football.

IT has never been given any other team the opportunity of achieving this feat, the Borderers being unique in fielding their full league team as representative of Wales.

LAST year South China won the Shield and the League and were well represented in China's team to capture the Charity Cup and the Chinese eleven to win the Lal Wah trophy.

To Capture The Charity Cup For Wales

Duncan played his best game of the season.

A hair-raising duel, possessing all the virtues of an ideal cup final rewarded the huge concourse of spectators which thronged the enclosure on the Club ground yesterday to see Wales defeat China, and win for the first time the Sunday Herald Charity Cup, by three goals to one.

It was a fiercely contested match, yet comparatively speaking free from fouls. A terrific pace was set in the early stages and maintained to the end, so that the exchanges were always brimful of excitement and pregnant with possibilities.

In lifting the cup for Wales, the Borderers played traditional football. The secret of their astonishing list of successes in local soccer is consistency in playing to an established type of game. Of this I have written before. The methods adopted are not complex, but simple and direct: in a sentence they are to move the ball by the quickest manner and the shortest route towards goal, and once there to shoot, shoot, and shoot again. And it is an interesting commentary to note that the Chinese have not yet succeeded in finding successful counter tactics. By the same methods the Borderers beat the Chinese in the Senior Shield and took a fortnight ago. It was these very tactics which earned the Club victory against South China last Saturday.

SPEED THE KEYNOTE.

Speed! This is the keynote. But not the useless speed of kick and rush; of overrunning the ball and of wild and indiscriminate kicking. The speed of reaching the ball just that split second before their opponents, of passing with the least possible delay and of keeping the ball in progressive movement.

This was where the Borderers held the upper hand yesterday, for not only were they fast, but they added skill, the offspring of confidence, courage and determination.

The forward line has not worked together so well in any other match this season. That they were perfectly supported by the half backs is not to be overlooked. They flashed the ball from wing to wing and in consequence looked good for a goal practically every time they attacked. An early foot injury to Jones caused him to change places with Duncan, but those who expected this to disorganise the line received the shock of their lives.

Podmore was an inspiration.

DUNCAN'S BEST.

Duncan, playing his best game for years, was an admirable inside forward. He distributed the ball well and was ever ready to fall back when needs must to help the defence.

(By "Veritas").

Neither was Jones a passenger on the wing, and he saved Leung in-chiao on exceedingly busy and somewhat uncomfortable afternoon.

To Hazlewood once again falls the chief honour in attack. He "made" Mathias, and his adroit footwork, his skill in drawing the opposition and of using the ball to his best advantage, constantly left the Chinese defence at cross-purposes. Mathias could have given better support. He seemed unable to shake off the early excitement always attendant on such an occasion, and too often ruined wonderful openings by mis-kicking.

Porter confined his activities to foraging, and although he was neither skilful nor artistic, and seldom did he look like scoring, his energetic presence was useful in attracting the attention of the defence and leaving his colleagues to go for the goals.

INSPIRING PODMORE.

But the Chinese have more reason to remember the Welsh half backs. Led by Podmore, who seems to rise to greater heights in each succeeding match, they obtained a terrible grip on the Chinese attack and held it until the final whistle brought relief.

Podmore was an inspiration. The Borderers played the well founded policy of the wing halves confining their attention to the opposing wingers, which meant that Podmore had not only to act as policeman to the inimitable Lee Wai-tong, but to thwart his thrustful colleagues, Au Ping-ming and Ho Ka-keung.

The centre-half was in his element. During interceptions, bearing the ball long, but to thwart by through passes along the ground to his waiting forwards went to wards the making of one of the most dazzling displays seen on the Club ground for many seasons.

Davis and Underwood supported well. The former was a whole-hearted worker against the elusive Tay Quan-long, and although the half back was quite often rounded, his recoveries were so quick that Tay could not turn his momentary advantage to full account.

Underwood found Tao Kwai-shing a handful, but stuck grimly to his task and finally quelled the right winger.

TO STOP LEE WAI-TONG.

Behind this trio, Mullane and Morrison concentrated on stopping Lee Wai-tong, and it was to their credit that he evaded them only once. Both backs were steady and resourceful, especially when subjected to severe pressure, and their effective covering nearly always barred the Chinese attack from consummating their movements.

And when even Mullane and Morrison were beaten, Smith stepped in as a splendid last line of defence. His fine positioning and anticipation frustrated China from scoring three times in the first half, and there was a period when he alone stood between the Chinese and goals. He didn't make a single mistake, and handled a greasy ball with attractive skill. From goalkeeper to forward the Borderers played to win, and it was this better team work, coupled with tactics more suitable to the conditions, which turned the scales in their favour.

The Chinese played hard right through and never gave up trying. That they went about their job in a different way to the winners, and failed, does not detract any value from their performance, which was as good as any losing team could expect to give.

There were intervals when they threatened to overwhelm the opposition. It was then that they played their best, with the whole team moving up in mass formation to attack.

BADLY SUPPORTED.

Nevertheless Lee Wai-tong was not adequately supported. The former South China inside left was too clever for his colleagues. He was scheming, for through the middle, passes the whole of the afternoon, and only received one. The fact that he scored from it indicates what might have been had his insides divined his ideas.

Ho Ka-keung and Au Ping-ming were the weak links in otherwise lively attack. Tay, so far as he was permitted by the omnipresent Davies and the stolid Mullane, put in some good work on the left wing, and Tao wasted no time in despatching the ball into the middle from the opposite line.

Chiefly the inside men lacked the ability to push home territorial advantages. Momentary hesitation when a quick shot was demanded several times saw them robbed of excellent scoring opportunities. The attack was clever in approach, work, but lost itself when confronted with the task of finishing off the movements.

Behind them, Leung Wing-chui and Co. played variable football. They were steady, but lacked the spark of genius which illumined the work of their opposite numbers.

HALF-BACKS AT A LOSS.

Leung was a tireless worker, but did not make the best use of the ball. Ho Chor-yi was more effective as a frustrator, and contributed little to the more constructive side of his work. Lee Kwok-wai has also been seen to support his forwards better.

There were times when the halves appeared to be in danger of losing their grip and of being overrun, and there is no doubt that the quick, decisive movements of the Welsh vanguard prevented them from indulging in their normal, complacent type of game.

In defence Lau Mau was prominent, but Leung in-chiao seemed very upset and was too liable to be caught on the wrong foot. The bustling tactics of the opposition had its effect, as it has before this season. The backs were not really confident, although both put in some excellent work during the afternoon.

Pau Kap-ing was the shining light in defence. He made a number of typical clearances, fending the ball very cleanly. That the net was pierced three times was no fault of his.

Smith stood between the Chinese and goals.

TWO GOALS UP.

For three matches in succession now have the Borderers enjoyed a two-nil lead at the interval against the Chinese. It was Hazlewood who gave them the first goal, following some smart work on the left wing by Duncan and Jones. The ball rebounded off Pan and Hazlewood had only to tap it in.

The right wing paved the way for the second goal. Mathias and Hazlewood took the ball down and the winger put it square along the goal line so that Jones had only to run in and connect with his foot. On both occasions the Chinese defence was spreadeagled.

The exchanges in this half were intense and thrilling. The Borderers were great fighters and only Smith averted a reply goal before the interval.

China were prominent in the early stages of the second half and the Welshmen were sore pressed for a long time. It came as no surprise to see Lee Wai-tong, who had been waiting for the opportunity, nip through and beat Smith with a fast cross shot. It was a clever goal—the best of the match.

After this reverse the Borderers played bravely, and more than held their own. They came their third goal, the award of which incensed some of the Chinese spectators to such a degree, that there was a threat of the pitch being invaded. Forty and Pau went for the ball and came down together on the goal-line. The next moment the ball was in the net.

I was assured by spectators in the position to see that Porter actually pushed the ball across with his hand and that Hazlewood rushed in to put the finishing touch.

Captain Hague, the referee, was obviously in two minds, but after consulting a linesman, he gave the decision in favour of the Welshmen.

REFEREE ON DOYLE'S FOUL

Mr. G. H. Douglas Denies Boxer Used Carpentier Crouch

London, March 8. Mr. C. H. Douglas, the referee in the Doyle-Petersen fight, in which Doyle was disqualified on a foul in the second round, described the incident in the King's Bench Division yesterday, and said that Doyle's low blows after he had had three warnings must have been deliberate.

The action by Jack Doyle was to test the legality of the British Boxing Board of Control's decision to refuse to pay him the £3,000 purse money.

The Board, who, with the White City Stadium, Limited, defended the action, maintained that they were entitled to act as they did with the purse money.

The defence of the White City Stadium Limited was that they were not principals, but the agents of Jeff Dickson's company in promoting the contest. before the formation of the Board the principal sufferers through the lack of control were the boxers themselves and the public who paid to see them.

"I can give you this example," he added. "There was an ugly incident about the contest between Jimmy Wilde and Pete Herman, an American boxer."

"No inquiries were made and one never heard what really happened. I think Jimmy Wilde probably lost his championship entirely through this sort of thing."

Mr. Justice MacKinnon: What do you mean by "that sort of thing?" Do you mean the referee was unfair?—No, I think there was something odd with the weighing. One always heard there was something odd about it.

Mr. Cecil Herbert Douglas, who is a steward of the Board, then gave evidence. "I think," he said, "the fight had gone for a minute or a minute and a half when Doyle, in my opinion, struck Petersen low. I cautioned him, and I think I cautioned him again for holding. He hit Petersen low again and very hard."

"I stopped them," he said. Doyle, you have hit low with your right hand again. I shall not speak to you any more. This was during the first round.

"Just as the bell went Doyle hit Petersen low again. This contest being for the heavy-weight championship of Great Britain and having in mind the prestige of boxing, I thought that a minutes' rest would enable Doyle to pull himself together."

"I said to myself: 'Right; we shall give him another chance.' At the commencement of the second round (Continued on Page 9.)

INTERNATIONAL HOCKEY TOURNAMENT.

ENGLAND SHOULD HAVE BEATEN INDIA

CHANCES MISSED AT VITAL STAGES OF GAME

FAST HOCKEY IN SPITE OF RATHER DIFFICULT CONDITIONS

(By "Bully-off").

England had only themselves to blame that they did not win the International Tournament final against India yesterday. With the opportunities to score presented to their inside forwards they should have been at least three goals in the lead at the end instead of drawing at two goals each.

The game was played on the No. 2 Marina ground and after the rains of the last two or three days, the underfoot conditions were rendered very difficult. The game was not productive of the standard of hockey expected for some of the players could, on their form yesterday, have given a soccer eleven a good game at charging especially in the latter stages, when excitement ran so high.

The encounter drew one of the largest crowds yet seen at a local hockey match.

TECHNICAL OFFENCES.

On one of two occasions the "advantage" rule was overlooked by the umpires when the exercise of it might have greatly benefited the offended side. One glaring example occurred late in the first half when Lieut. Garthwaite was left with an open goal after an infringement by one of the Indians. Had he been permitted to try at goal he could not very easily have missed scoring.

Generally, however, the umpires kept a good check on the rough play which was inclined to show itself on occasions. Twice members of the Indian team were cautioned for rough play the offenders being Kalwant Singh, the Radio forward, for deliberately striking an opponent's stick, and Sub. Taj Mohamed, of the Punjabis, for undercutting. It was from one of the latter's undercuts that Arthur Dand, the England captain, was struck in the face and injured. He was able to resume play after a short while when he took up position at outside right until the end of the game.

Owing to some misunderstanding as to the time fixed for the bully-off, H.J.D. Lowe, the English centre-half, did not turn up on the field until the end of the game; Willy Reed, the brilliant Colony right-half, was brought into the pivot position, and Yeomans of the Lincolnshire filled the position vacated by him.

GOOD COMBINATION.

Yeomans put in some very useful work but was unable to cope with the speed and splendid stick-work of Lal Singh, the wizard Colony left wing.

The Indian forward line were an excellent combination especially on the left where Kalwant Singh and Lal Singh were continually a menace to the English defence. Lal Singh's speed and uncanny accuracy with the reverse stick not gave the Indians openings, time after time.

In the half line Dulla Singh, in the centre, was a tower of strength, and was responsible for breaking up many of the movements initiated by Atkinson and Garthwaite. M. H. Hussain also played a fine destructive game while Parduman Singh and Sub. Taj Mohammed proved their worth in the full back line.

As was expected Willy Reed was his usual brilliant self. He stopped everything and gave his attackers those neat, accurately placed passes with which he features his game.

Dand and Metcalfe had plenty to do at back for England both showing good powers of recovery and clearing with lusty hits. Garthwaite, although more at home on the left, was a dashing forward and combined well with Bartlett and Atkinson. Bartlett did not show up as well as he has done in the previous games in which he has played this season, being rather on the slow side and not sure of his hitting. Atkinson played well at inside left, but his shooting was decidedly weak. On at least two occasions he should have netted goals but shot wide of the mark.

Hoquard on the left wing was responsible for a number of good passes to his inside men and showed a good turn of speed which he used to advantage.

INDIA SCORES FIRST.

The Indians took the lead in the first half through Kalwant Singh, who scored with a scoop shot, after Atkinson had tested Nur Mohammed with a hot shot. England pressed for a long period, during which Garthwaite equalised as the result of a corner hit by Hoquard. In this period, Hoquard, Bartlett and Atkinson all missed opportunities of scoring. Mohammed made some fine passes.

In the second half, England took the lead through Atkinson who followed up a rebound. India attacked strongly and a fine opening by Avtar Singh drew Hollingsworth out of his goal. The goalkeeper collided with Yeomans and fell to the ground. Lal Singh followed up and put the ball into the net but the goal was disallowed for offside. India continued to press and eventually obtained the equaliser through Kartar Singh. The end came with both teams pressing hard for victory.

The teams were as follows:
England: Hollingsworth (Army); A. A. Dand (Club) and Lieut. N. W. Metcalfe (Army); Yeomans (Army); W. A. Reed (Club) and E. V. Reed (Club); Senior (Army), Lieut. G. C. Garthwaite (Army), Lieut. P. J. H. Bartlett (Navy), Lieut-Comdr. T. K. W. Atkinson (Navy) and Lieut. J. H. Hoquard (Lincolns).

India: Nur Mohammed (Punjabis); Parduman Singh (Radio) and Subodh Taj, Mohammed (Punjabis); M. H. Hussain (Radio), Dulla Singh (Punjabis) and Anir Din (Punjabis); Wainat Shah (Punjabis), Kartar Singh (Punjabis), Avtar Singh (Radio), Kalwant Singh (Radio) and Lal Singh (Punjabis).

RISE

New York, Apr. 2.
The steadily improving trend of general business conditions in the United States is reflected in the pronouncements of the chairman of the United States Steel Corporation and the President of the General Motors Corporation at the annual meetings of shareholders.

The United States Steel chairman declared:

"Last year we thought we could see signs of revival ahead. Today we know we can."

"The Corporation is now operating at forty per cent. of full capacity as compared with 14.8 per cent. at this time last year. The number of its employees is only twenty thousand under the 220,000 persons in its employ in the peak year, 1929."

At the General Motors meeting, the chairman said that though the rate of business improvement may be accelerated or retarded by abnormal influences, industrial recovery like industrial depression is irresistible.

The chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, Mr. Jesse Jones, also affirms that business conditions throughout the country are considerably improving.

FURTHER SIGNS.

Further facts warranting revival claims are that six millions have been re-employed either privately
